Labor Day Marks Beginning Of New School Year

Confusion reigns as 2,835 diverse students return en masse September 7 to begin the new school year. A pre-season pep rally and newly originated Get-Together Dance sponsored by the Student Congress unify the student body and encourage sophomore participation.

Mr. Capps' office becomes a haven for students seeking schedule changes and escape from the humid summer weather during the first few weeks of school. A hectic life, filled with anxious moments when locker combinations will not work or filled with last minute cramming, replaces the leisurely life of summer. Once more the student settles himself down to broadening his knowledge and understanding.

With September's close the summer ends, and a year promising activity and personal rewards begins.

A mid-morning shower catches Donna West and Jimmy Dickie as they cross Market Street en route to chemistry class.

Mike Coates gains firsthand experience into the workings of democratic elections as he votes for his preferences for sophomore class officers.

With increasing enthusiasm, students respond to the events of the autumn season. Sophomores prove the merits of using voting booths as they elect their first slate of student congress officers. A darkened stadium filled with Wildcat fans watches—entranced by the sight before them—as the band transforms itself into a chugging locomotive illuminated by light-bearing instruments. Assisting in the local renovation program to prepare Wilmington for All-American City competition, the Interact Club constructs a new student gate and fence at Legion Stadium. An address on education by Dr. William H. Wagoner and a Thanksgiving concert by the Hanover Singers keynote interest at student body assemblies. Almost unnoticed, the pace begins to quicken with the approach of Christmas. And suddenly on December 22 all memories of school are vanquished amid holiday festivities and jovialty.

Autumn Activities Capture Student Interest

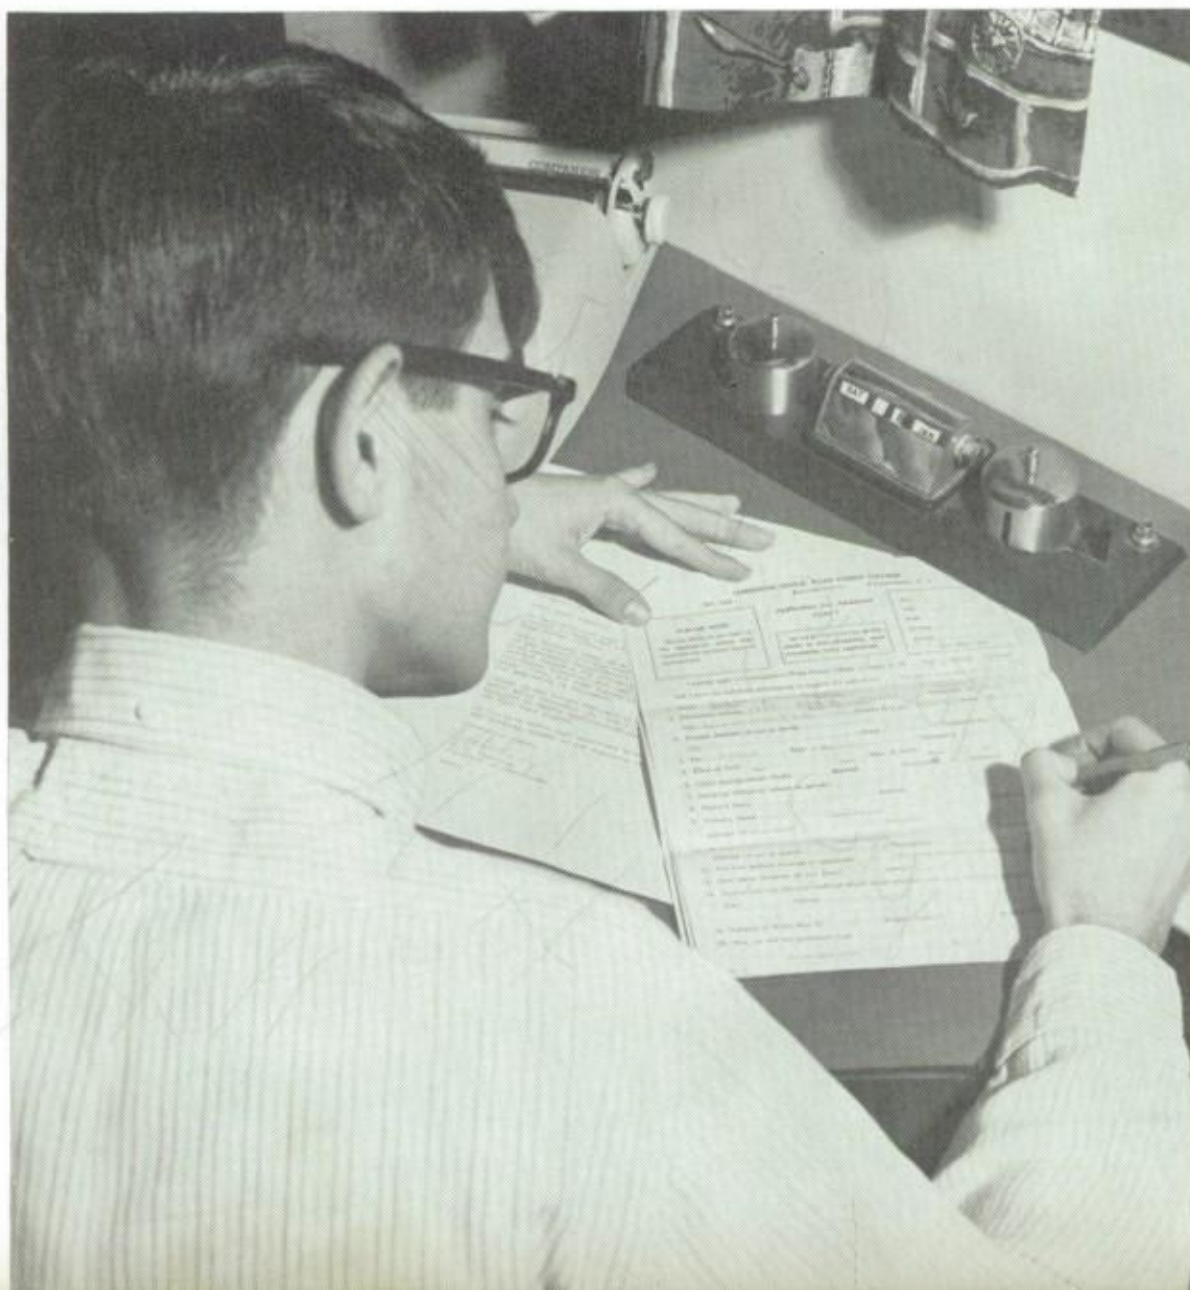

Under the supervision of John Mavros, Interact members Lee Furr, Steve Merritt, Wally West, and Johnny Watkins

add the finishing touches to the new student gate at Legion Stadium.

Marisa Tabja, Yoya Tabja, and Maria Echegeray, all of Lima, Peru, exchange excited greetings with Bonnie Melton, Maxine Warshauer, and Cindy Simpkins, their North American sisters, respectively, as they begin their ten weeks' visit in Wilmington.

Senior Gary Ayash discovers that the filling out of college applications is a long and complicated procedure.

Realizing the importance of education, the student applies himself to learning. The feeling of pride when understanding comes encourages him to achieve higher goals. For seniors a test of their success comes in December as they take Scholastic Aptitude and Achievement Tests. The humanities courses, in order to provide comprehensive education, offer advanced training for the gifted student while they reveal the world of cultural beauty to all students.

With the arrival of three South American students second semester, hemispheric relationships grow closer as students discern from cultural and political comparisons, common interests and desires.

Through extensive lab work, Joy Wilson delves deeper into the mystery of composition and structure of substances.

Azalea Festival Highlights Spring Semester

Imperceptibly, the days grow longer, and the freshness of rebirth instills within the student lethargic visions of basking in the sun's warmth.

The Teenage Princess Pageant, reminiscent of the Old South, initiates Azalea Festival celebrations, while nature, contributing millions of blossoms, arrays the earth in beauty. Days spent at surfing or perhaps in final practicing for an all-important horse show are still only wishful dreams. Final exams force the student to return to reality, and the last day, the one hundred and eightieth day, arrives. Barely able to control the joy within, students wait for the final bell to ring signifying for some an end to their education and for others an interlude of frivolous weeks of summer fun.

A sure sign of spring is the girls' gym class as they resume playing softball.

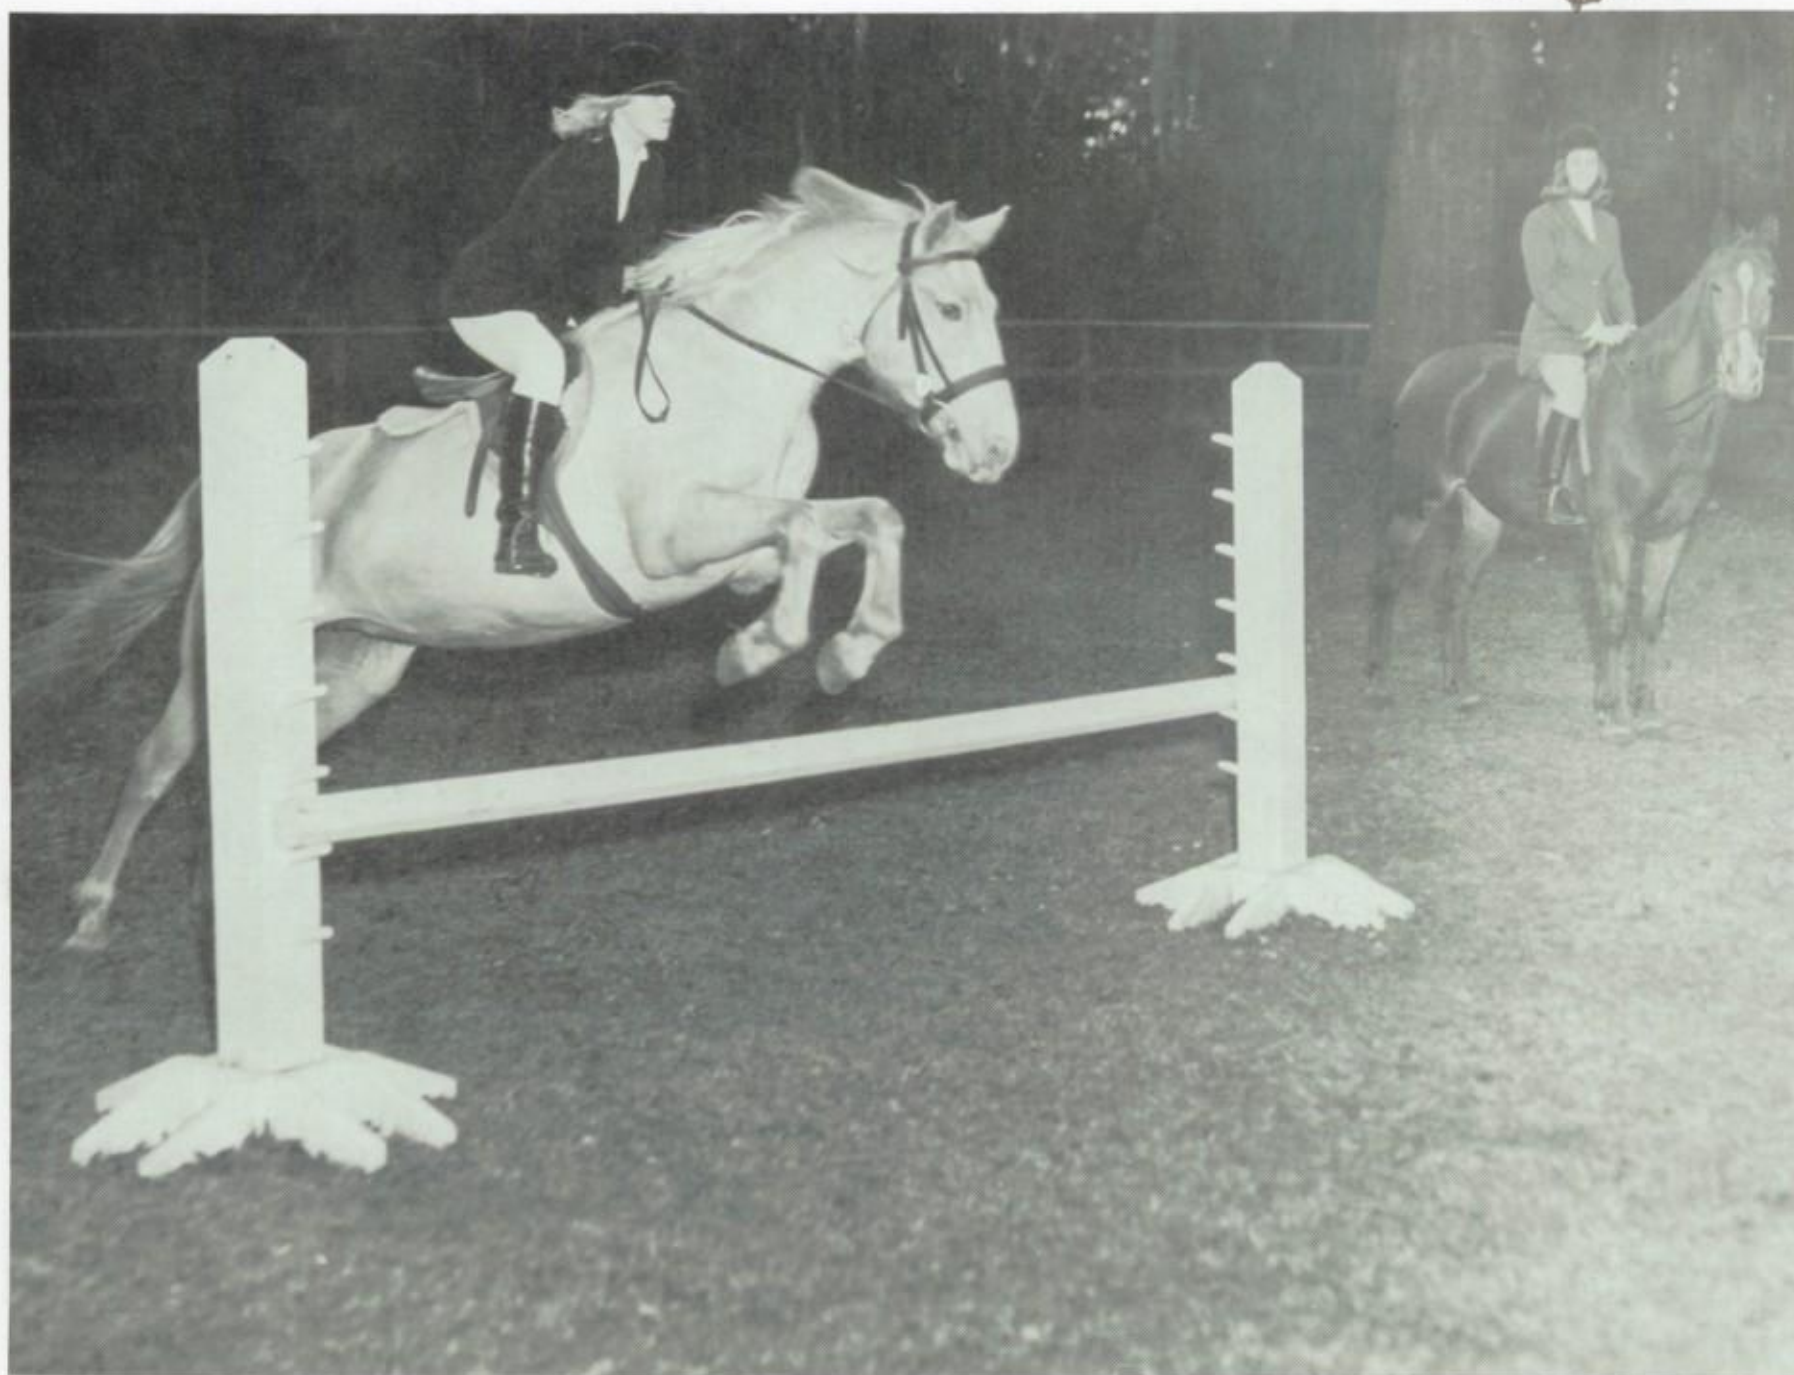

Bonnie Rannbury and Joseph Pace, whiling away lunch period at the Bellamy Wall, compare plans for the approaching summer.

Headed straight for the beach, John Jordan forgets school in the anticipation of several long rides if the surf is right.

Dick Slack graces Sara Fowler with the traditional bronze mum with orange and black school colors.

As varsity cheerleaders urge the Wildcat team to victory, the Homecoming spirit of gaiety envelopes NHHS students. Gala floats, brilliant in the radiance of the sun, reflect the pinnacle of student creativity while the presence of ten Homecoming Queen finalists lends an air of grace to the festival parade. Bleachers filled with cheering fans grow strangely silent as the eagerly awaited moment arrives and Sherry Shaw is crowned 1965 Homecoming Queen. Ecstatic crowds applaud the Wildcats for their 20-6 victory over Enloe, and all depart, storing never-to-be-forgotten memories.

Anticipating the outcome of the Homecoming game with Enloe, Willie the Wildcat prepares Eagle stew.

Pausing in the shadows of a vine-covered arbor, May Queen Cheryl Williamson views the loveliness of Airlie Gardens.

Beauty, Dignity Foremost In May Court Attendants

Trumpets hail the arrival of Queen-of-May Cheryl Williamson, and ROTC cadets form an archway of inter-locking swords as the Queen ascends her throne. Court attendants, resplendent in flowing gowns, epitomize genteel beauty and charm as they offer homage to their queen.

Unique, as are the beauties which it honors, the May Dance awakens the appreciation of loveliness in all. Enchantment flees as the hours wane, yet visions of spring's maids never dim.

In a mid-February setting Maid-of-Honor Christie Johnson smiles to think of a warm May Day.

After a series of foul weather Saturdays, members of the May Court—Diane McKoy, senior; Abbe Godwin and Kathy Frankos, sophomores; and Marilyn Gooden, junior—found

Graduation Climaxes Twelve Years' Study

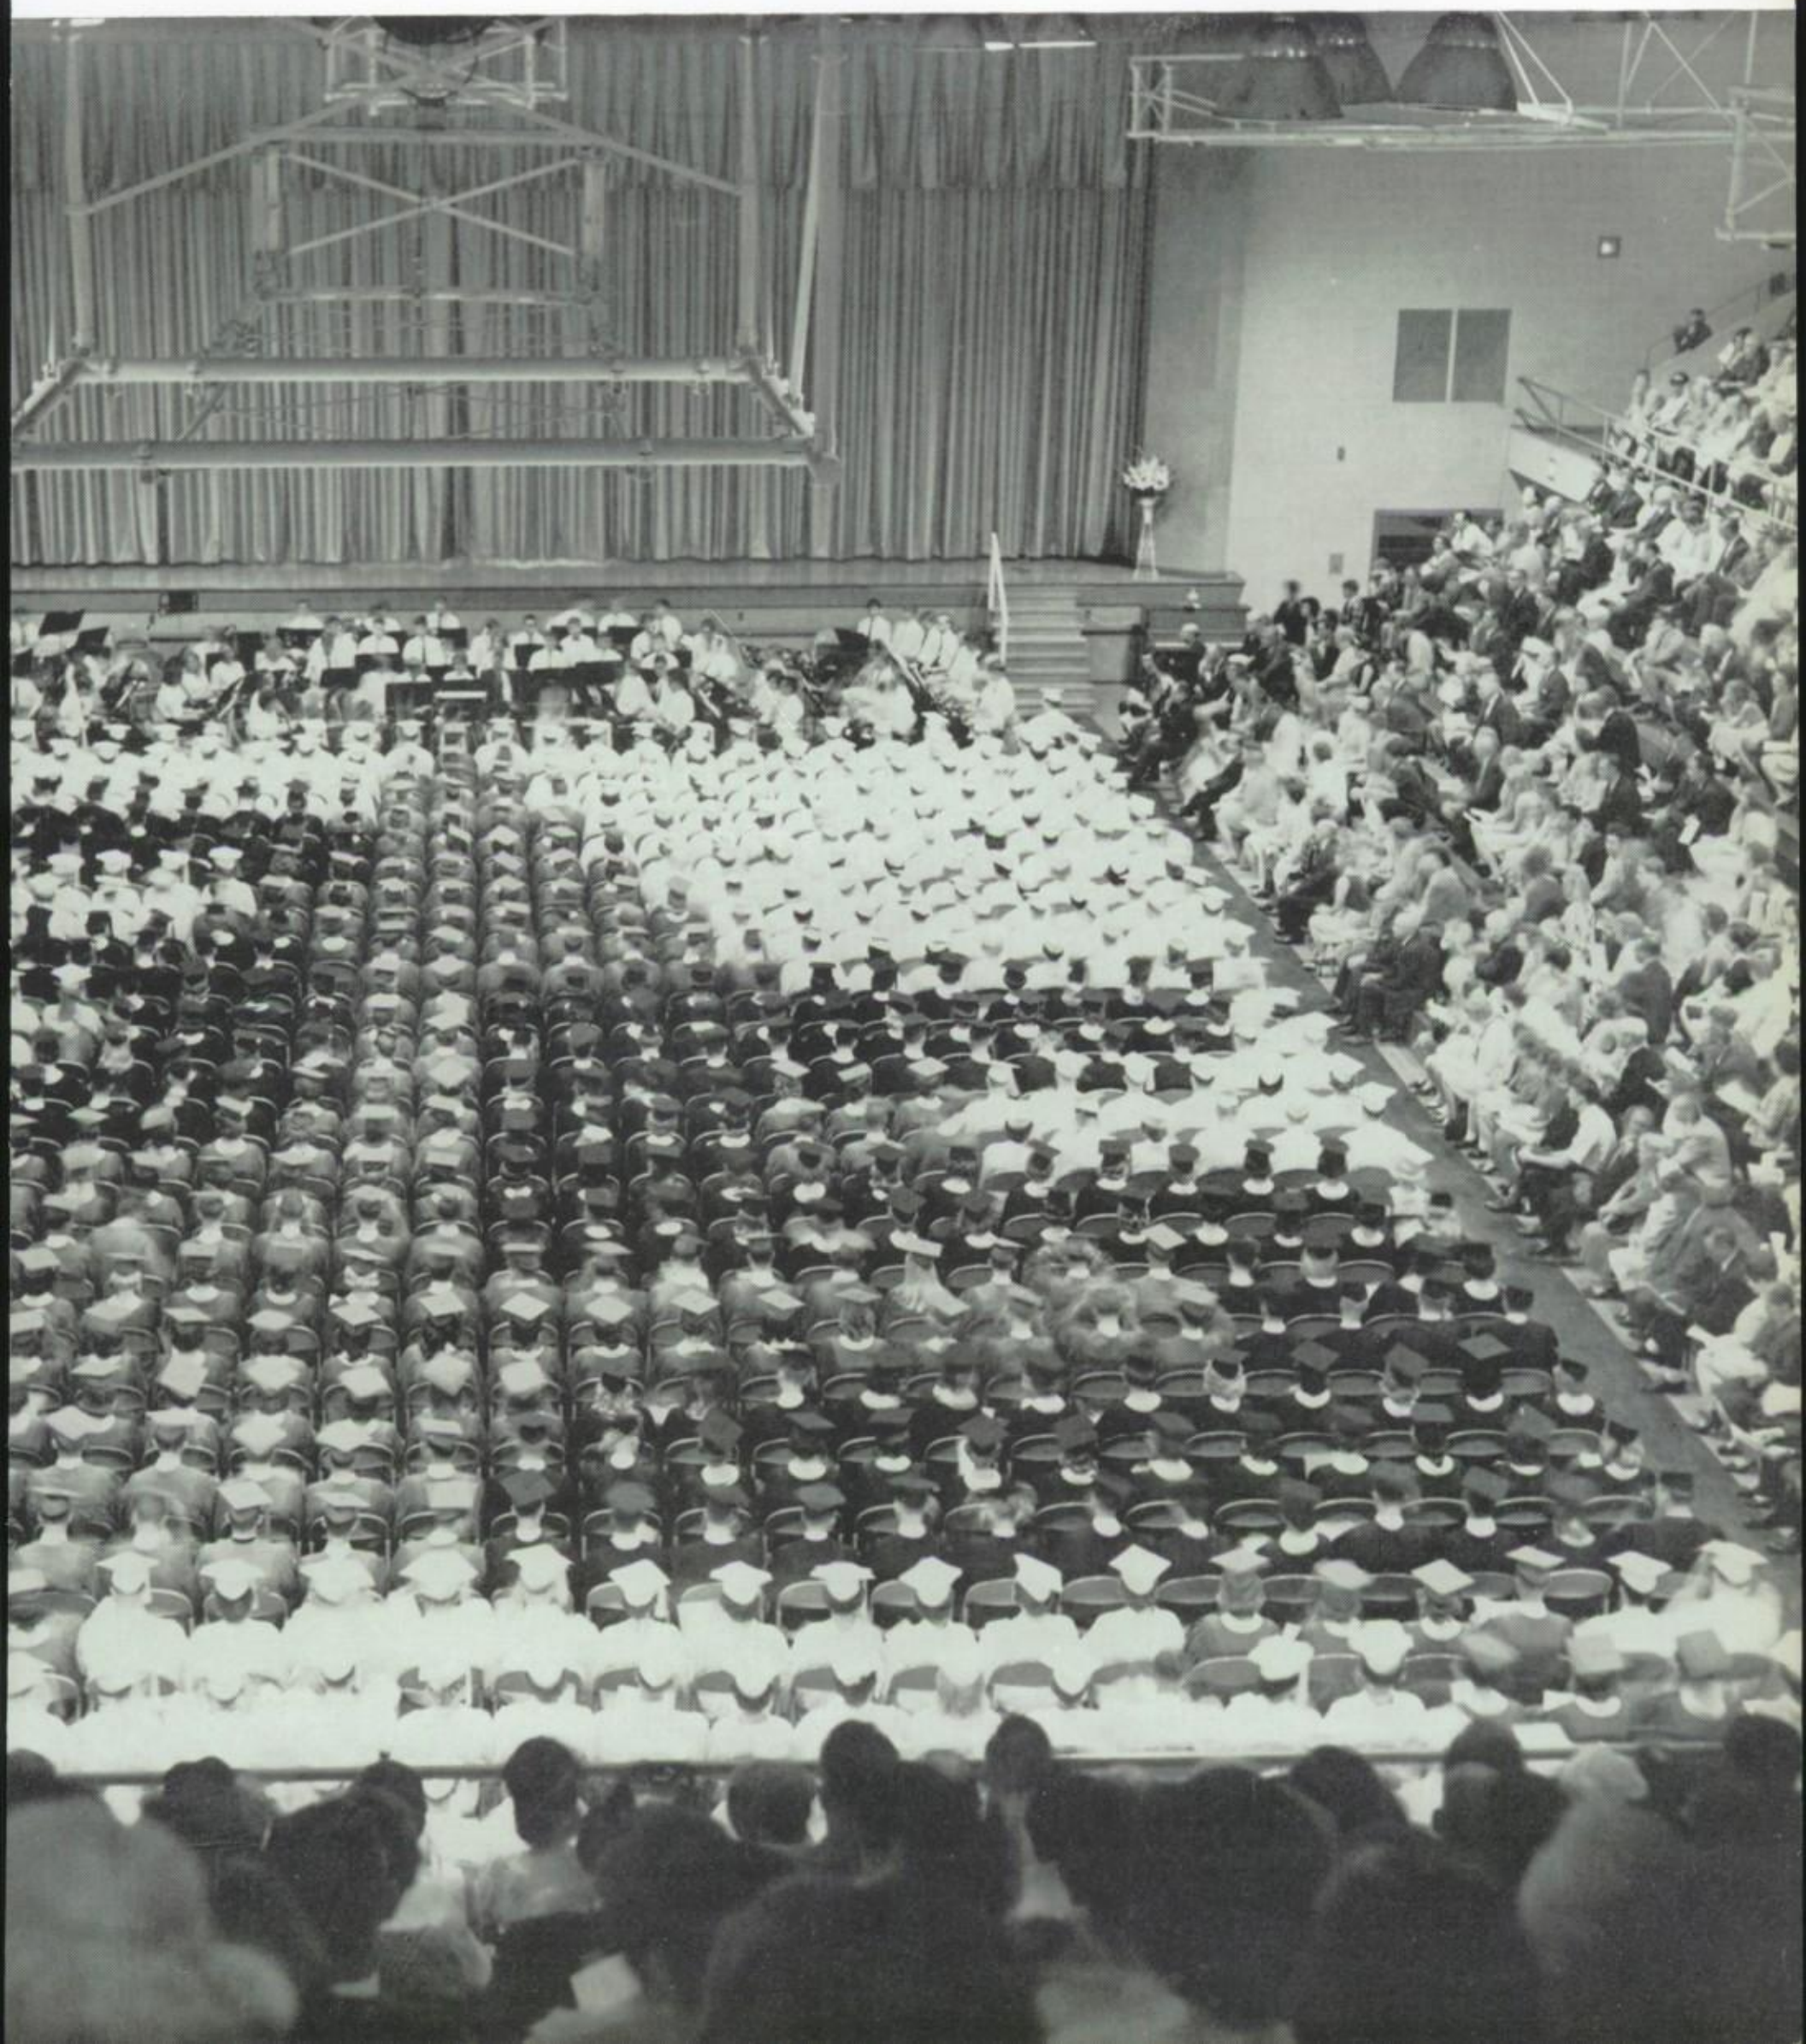

Twelve years of concentrated studies lead to this moment. Almost fourteen thousand hours of classroom work and at least thirty-two teachers are behind the individual graduate as he steps forward to receive his diploma. Ahead lie . . . a college career, a job, a home. Such a long-awaited event somehow comes sadly—almost unexpectedly—when one sings for the last time as a student:

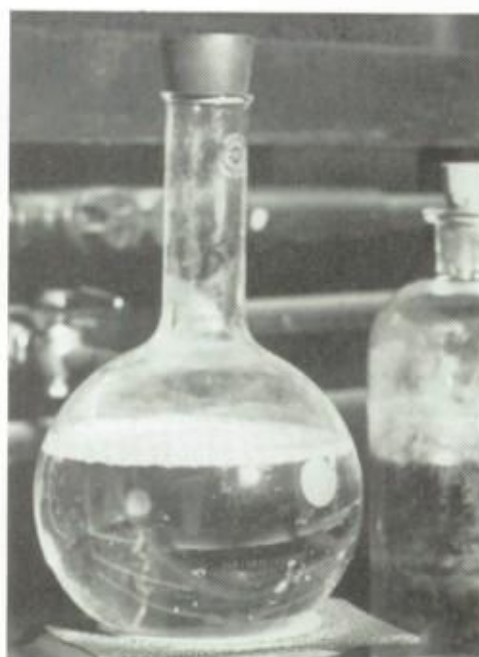

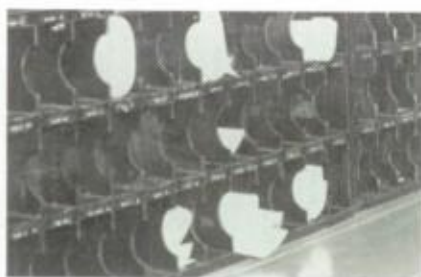

*To thee we sing our praises,
Dear New Hanover High,
With pride we see your glory;
Your fame will never die.
We'll keep your colors flying
And give our loyalty,
Your motto we will cherish.
Our strength lies in unity.*

*While Orange and Black waves o'er us
Into the winds of time,
We'll proudly raise our voices
In this our song sublime.
Forever we'll remember
These halls we'll glorify.
The years will find us loyal
To you, New Hanover High.*

Administration and Faculty

Mr. Wallace I. West, principal, serves punch at his annual Christmas "Dip and Sip" social.

Barbara Halterman accepts an admission slip from Mrs. Elise Lane, dean of girls.

Administrative Department Essential For Efficiency

An efficient administrative department is essential in maintaining a high standard of curriculum and a smoothly operated high school.

Mr. West, principal and head administrator, is responsible for big curriculum changes to see that title courses conform to standards set by the state education department. His duties range from public relations for the school to the drawing up of the master schedule.

Mr. Gary Widenhouse finds his job as assistant principal quite a change from director of student activities. His new responsibilities include scheduling of special assembly programs, preparation of publicity for school events, handling of disciplinary problems, and helping with mid-term schedule changes.

All special admission slips or requests for excusal must be cleared in the offices of Mr. Fred H. Capps, dean of boys, and Mrs. Elise Lane, dean of girls. Daily attendance check restricts too frequent absences and tardies, as student potential remains the predominant factor.

Records, transcripts, and honor roll listings keep Miss Elizabeth Montgomery, registrar, constantly busy. Supervision of achievement tests and SAT's is but one of her many duties throughout the year.

Through frequent talks with one of the guidance counselors—Mr. Paul Maulsby, Mrs. Pat Wentz, or Mrs. Evelyn Doughty—students study college prerequisites, investigate vocational prospects, or work out personal problems. Guidance counselors aid the students in planning realistically for the future.

Mr. Paul Maulsby, Mrs. Evelyn Doughty, and Mrs. Pat Wentz, guidance counselors, discuss various pamphlets and college bulletins.

Mr. Fred H. Capps, dean of boys, and Mr. Gary Widenhouse, assistant principal, peruse the daily bulletin.

Filling out college transcripts is but one of the many duties of Miss Elizabeth Montgomery, registrar.

School nurse Mrs. Christine Boone, bandages Sylvia Parker's sprained arm.

Mr. Henry Vann, custodian, checks daily the operation of the boiler room.

Assistants Form Base For Activities

A large school such as New Hanover continues to function through a system of teamwork and routine. Assistants in the organization supply this balancing force.

Mrs. Boone treats, analyzes, and keeps records of students who require medical attention. She applies her skill in first aid emergency cases.

New dietitian, Mrs. Agnes Atkinson, with a staff of twenty-six helpers, is responsible for daily preparing and serving well-balanced meals. The cafeteria and the Student Union host one thousand three hundred students on an average day.

Rooms full of textbooks—twenty-five thousand dollars worth of new textbooks—are the responsibility of Mrs. Sara Thomas, who assumed the job this year. Mrs. Radcliffe publishes the daily bulletin, serves as the principal's secretary, and files reams of student records.

A group of thirteen janitorial assistants supervised by Mr. Vann, custodian, keep the school clean and in orderly, working condition.

Mrs. Agnes Atkinson, dietitian, supervises counting of money by cashiers, Brenda LaBrecque and Betti Lindsey.

Mrs. Priscilla Radcliffe, secretary, and Mrs. Sara Thomas, clerk, take inventory of the supply in the bookroom.

Miss Eloise Scott, Advanced Algebra, Trigonometry, demonstrates the convenience of her new overhead projector to Miss Maie Sanders, Algebra II, and Mrs. Josephine Sapp, Consumer Math, Unified Geometry.

Miss Octavia Smith, Algebra I, II; Mr. William Mangum, Geometry, Algebra I, Consumer Math; Col. William King,

Mathematics Precedes

Miss Ruth Galloway, Mrs. Louise Turner, and Mr. Adrian Rhodes discuss New Math Concepts which may prove useful in their Unified Geometry classes.

Algebra I; and Mr. Carl Pruitt, Math, Consumer Math; rush to meet their deadline for returning subject cards.

Tomorrow's Discoveries

Mathematics, predecessor of discovery, is a field in which the students of New Hanover High daily participate. Eagerly, or timidly, people go to classes trying to make provisions for the future and to obtain a basic understanding of the structure and function of mathematics. Whether through Shop Math or College Algebra, all students of New Hanover obtain satisfaction achieved only through successful completion of a problem.

New Hanover High students receive a variety in mathematics seldom matched by high schools throughout the state. A student interested in lines, planes, and angles may find enrichment in Unified Geometry and Trigonometry courses. Algebra courses, ranging from Algebra I to College Math, offer an ever widening field of algebraic concept. Consumer Math and Shop Math offer practical information to students preparing for an immediate vocation after graduation.

This year about seventy Algebra I students are beginning to explore the controversial new math through a course designated as Modern Algebra. Students have stated that it is simpler and easier to understand than the older version.

Many students leaving mathematics classrooms claim "to have seen the light"—that is, the light of the new overhead projectors now being used to make the teaching of the various math courses more direct and understandable. For supplementary work the student, seeking to improve himself, has access to additional textbooks and materials.

Mr. James Pigford, Head of Math Department, Advanced Algebra, College Math, Algebra I, looks on as Bob Prevatte tries to complete a test.

Mr. William Turner, Algebra I (Modern Math) and Miss Mary Adams, Advanced Algebra, Unified Geometry, stage an impromptu duet after school.

Mrs. Mozelle Smith, Biology, examines the office aquarium as Mr. Eddie West, Biology, Advanced Biology, nets an angel fish.

Mr. Hal Stout, Biology, and Mrs. Dell Boreman, Head of Science Department, Advanced Biology, inspect a newly arrived shipment of cats.

Labs, Experimentation

Mrs. Estelle LeGwin, Chemistry, and Miss Kathryn Emmart, Chemistry, explain the importance of molecular models to Mr. Richard Clifford, Physics.

Miss Catherine Cummings, Physical Science, and Mr. Donald Dickens, Biology, look on while Mrs. Nancy Lee, Biology, demonstrates an experiment involving osmosis.

Cultivate Curiosity, Exploration In Science

New textbooks and increased individual lab work encourage more student interest in all branches of science this year.

Biology and Advanced Biology students now follow the Biological Sciences Curriculum Study, which is an inquiry into life with more laboratory directed work than ever before. Projects such as planarian regeneration and osmosis in the carrot that were merely discussed in past years are actually undertaken by the students under this new course. In some classes, students are expected to use personal initiative to present material. How and why are the two main questions asked in these classes.

Mondays and Tuesdays are chemistry lab days. New lab manuals challenge two hundred seventy-eight aspiring young chemists with the open end experiment in which the student himself must interpret the reactions and decipher the results. Chemistry, a Modern Course, a new text being used this year, ties chemistry in even closer with biology and physics and introduces many new concepts into chemistry.

Under the direction of Mr. Clifford in his first year at New Hanover, the physics department takes on a fresh approach. As students solve problems involving velocities, motion, energy, and wave length, the importance of mathematics in science becomes evident. Students learn a great deal by devising, executing, and explaining their own experiments. Graphs and visual aids prove indispensable in physics.

Collecting samples of local flora and fauna are Mr. Philip Witherington, Biology, Advanced Biology, Physical Science, and Mrs. Emily Laughlin, Biology, Advanced Biology.

Mrs. Bernice White, Head of Business Department, Office Practices, studies the moods of a picture obtained in the art appreciation course she has been taking.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Hood, Bookkeeping I, II, and Mrs. Norma Grubbs, Basic Business, Typing I, count money paid by students for school insurance.

Miss Julia Spencer, Typing I, Shorthand II, Bookkeeping I, and Mrs. Geraldine West, Shorthand I, Typing I, II, compare notes taken during their shorthand classes.

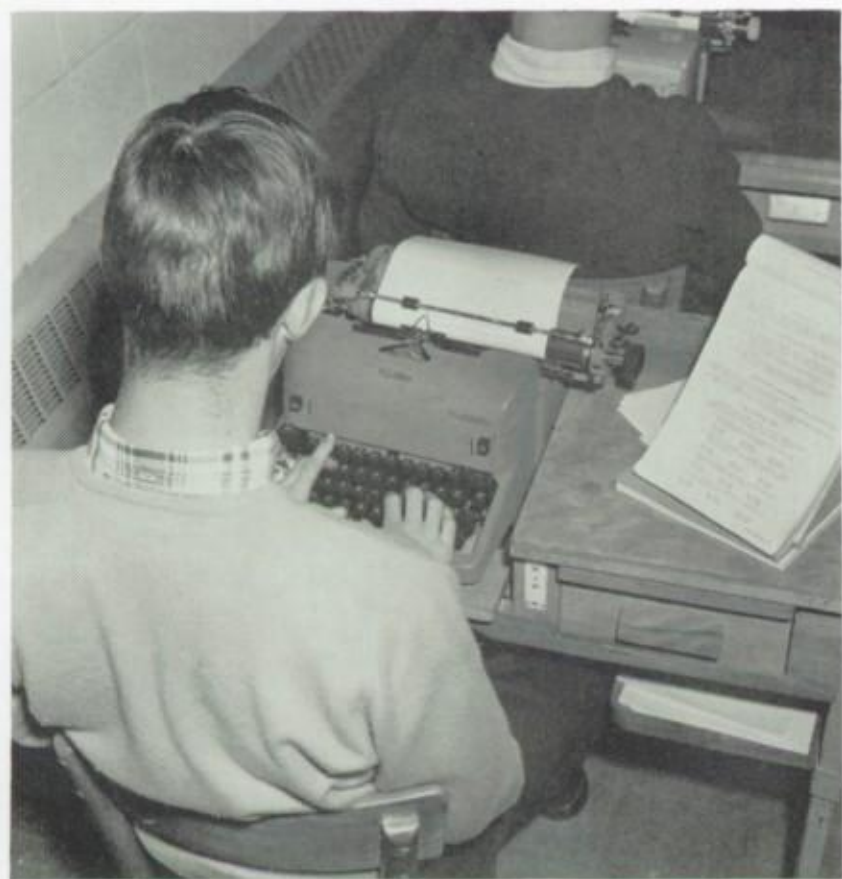

JoAnne Harrell, Susan Hayes, Jan Squires, and Peggy Suggs hurriedly take down dictation during shorthand class.

Mrs. Joan McGinnis, Personal Typing, Business Math; Mrs. Marguerite Owen, Typing, Bookkeeping I, Shorthand I; and

Mrs. Ruth McDonald, Business Math, Business Communications, arrange flowers for the next day's classes.

Students Learn Proper Business Techniques

Repeated drills in timed writings improve typing skills.

In business education more than thirteen hundred students are learning skills which help them now in academic classes and which later, through developed speed and accuracy, will help them vocationally. A high school student can obtain a diploma in Business Education by completion of two advanced courses selected from Shorthand 2, Typewriting 2, Bookkeeping 2, Office Practice, Office Occupations, or Distributive Education 2. Personal Typewriting, a one-semester course, is offered for college preparatory students.

The key punch and the listening stations, among many other additions to the department this year, aid students in their business courses. Records are played at an adjustable speed in the listening stations, and student either rhythmically type the record or write it in shorthand. This process develops speed and proficiency by forcing the student to follow the speed of the record. The business department has also gained new textbooks, General Office Practice and Diamond Jubilee, for first-year shorthand.

Students obtain practical experience in the business world by participating in Cooperative Office Occupations, a plan which provides part-time jobs for students.

Mr. Adam Thompson, Industrial Co-operative Training 1, 2, confers with a student about his employer's term report.

Driver's Ed. Stresses The Defensive

During the first semester students under the direction of Mr. W. K. Hardee participate in the classroom phase of Driver's Education. In their classes, numbering twenty or less, each student can obtain personal instruction. During second semester students transfer temporarily to study halls. Mr. Hardee stresses safety, responsibility, and economy with each student driver.

Mr. William K. Hardee, Driver's Education, checks as Peggy Wilson completes the necessary adjustments before starting the car.

Personal Experience Underlies DE-ICT

Daily, students and adults make contact through the various phases of buying with DE-ICT (Distributive Education-Industrial Cooperative Training) members, many times without recognizing them as such. She may be the cashier at the grocer's or one of the salesgirls at a favorite department store, or he may be the polite young man at the clothing shop. Instructors stress obedience, courtesy, and efficiency in their course of study: "Right or wrong the manager is always the boss. The customer is always right."

Mrs. Maybell Courie, DE I, II, demonstrates the use of a monogramming project made by one of her students.

Mr. Leon Brogden, New Hanover County Director of Physical Education, makes a long-distance phone call to arrange lodging for the basketball team.

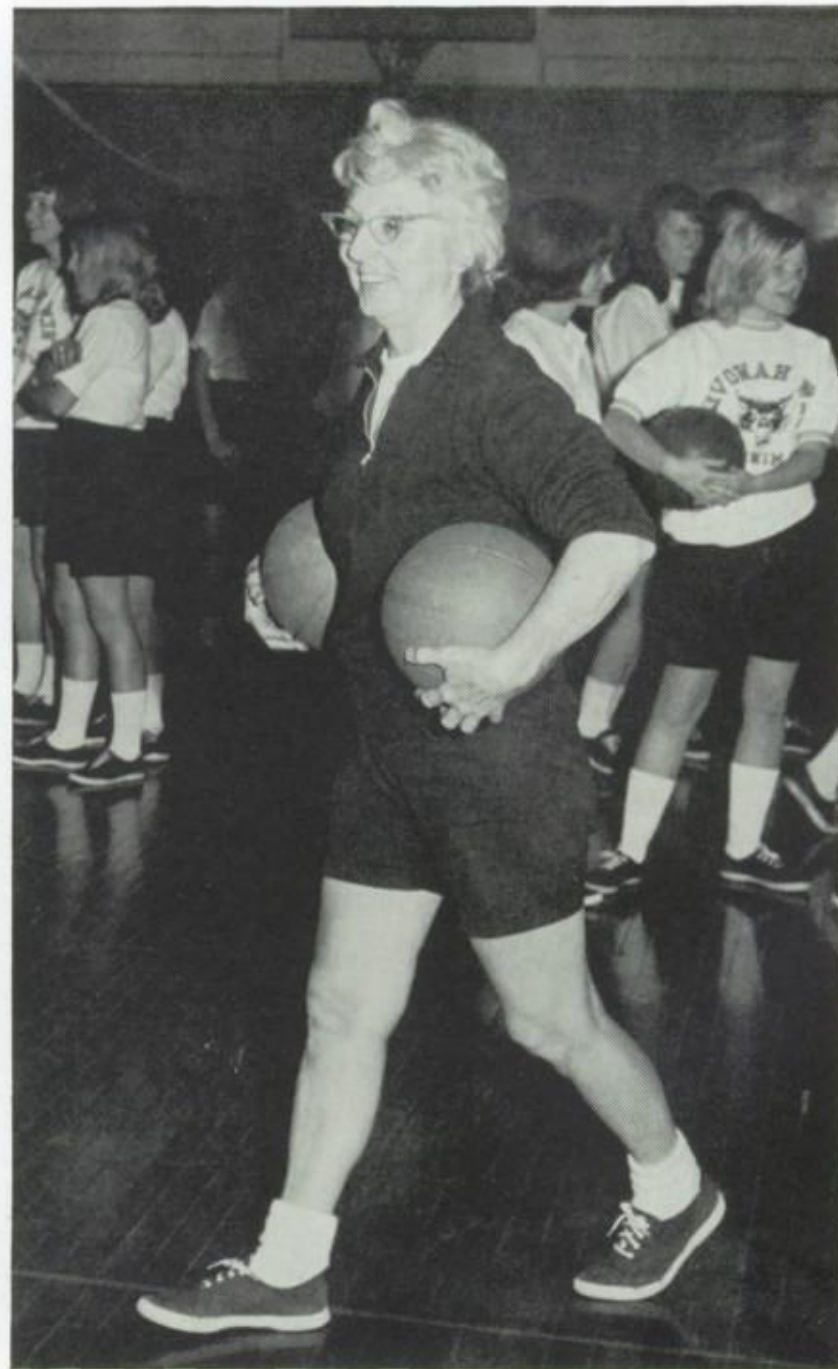

Sports Build Character Through Competition

This year Mr. Leon Brogden, Head of Physical Education for New Hanover County Schools, supervises classes taught by Mr. Jasper Davis, Mr. George Hardee, Mr. Fitzhugh Fennell, and Mrs. Jean Tillitt; he also supervises sports coached by Mr. Richard Henderson, Mr. Hal Stout, Mr. Frank Farrow, and Mr. Paul Maulsby. Classes total almost five hundred students. The Physical Education Department offers thirteen sports this year in addition to the regular gymnastic classes. These sports encourage both personal and team competition for participants. Students make use of facilities in Brogden Hall, the Girls' Gymnasium, the softball and tennis fields in Pembroke Jones Park, and the fields at Thirteenth and Ann Streets. The Cape Fear Country Club also lends the use of its tennis courts. Present approved city legislation provides for money to pave tennis courts at the park at Eighth and Ann Streets and at other key spots which will be available for Wilmington's expanding school system.

Mr. Jasper Davis, Physical Education, lowers a chin-up bar for Bern Coulter.

Mrs. Jean Tillitt, Physical Education, prepares for some afternoon basketball with members of the GAA.

Mr. William Bergeron, Head of the Social Studies Department, Government, places test papers in a shelf to await future attention.

Social Studies Animated

In this uneasy world of rapidly occurring events, one cannot rely upon mere material defenses. Because youth—tomorrow's generation—receives the emphasis, utilizing and developing human resources becomes essential.

Speakers, films, and activities enliven the social studies classroom and develop interest in this truly vital department.

Who can forget Congressman Alton Lennon's visit to New Hanover to address the Government Club? His speech on "Practical Aspects of Congress at Work" and the question-answer session afterward proved to be quite impressive to his audience of approximately one hundred students. In government, debates on current events challenge the student to think, to argue, to persuade; they afford him a chance to conduct research and decide what he feels is right.

Sociology classes have had such speakers as religious leaders representing the three major religions in an effort to cultivate a better understanding of human relationships.

Films add interesting sidelights to every social studies classroom. United States and World History students find that films such as, "The Making of a President 1960" and "The War of 1812," carry them back through time so that they are able to relive these major events as they happened. An excellent tape, "Brainwashing, the Ultimate Weapon," tells of the actual experiences of American prisoners of war in Korea.

Actual buying of stocks and bonds provides interest as well as experience in the Economics class. Discussions include opinions not only on personal but also national economics.

Through his studies, supplementary materials, and class discussions the social studies student discovers the importance of his subject and acquires philosophies that will strongly influence his adult living.

Mural are Mrs. Ruth Warren, Government; Miss Brenda and Mr. Newland Crocker, World History, U. S. History.

By Classroom Studies

Mr. Frank Farrow, Spanish II, III; Miss Judy Callaway, Spanish II; and Mrs. Linda Thompson, English II, Spanish I,

Study Of Foreign Languages Strengthens Students'

No field of study can open a student's eyes to the world around him more than that of foreign languages. Each day the melody or clamor of distant tongues transfers more than one thousand pupils at New Hanover to distant lands.

Spanish classes, with the largest enrollment, now offer four years' work. One course in Spanish IV is new this year. Games, plays, and activities typical of Latin-American life recreate the Spanish rhythm in the classroom. Three South American exchange students enrich the study of the language with talks about their countries.

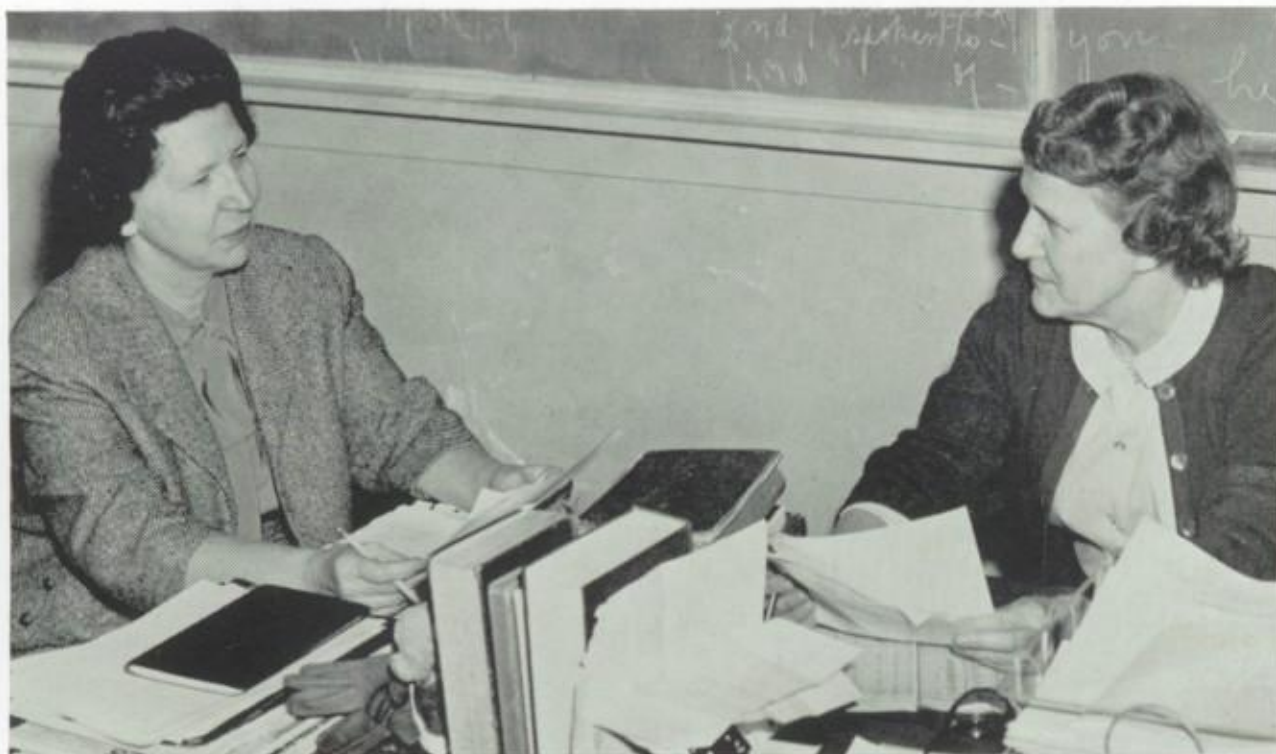

Pursuit of French comes alive through a new series of materials and textbooks, including flash cards and tape recorders. The language lab, in which students participate orally for fluency in conversation, is also of practical importance to students of French.

Latin, the mother language, is increasing in popularity. Projects—such as, posters, sets of miniature armor, and derivative notebooks, plus literature, including myths and Commentarii de Bello Gallico, give increased skill in translation.

Instructors anticipate expansion of the language program in the near future. Such an addition may add another foreign tongue to the curriculum. A broad and firm foundation in languages gives students cosmopolitan appreciation through the school's comprehensive program.

Mrs. Virginia Maynard, Head of Foreign Language Department, Spanish II, III, IV, chats in Spanish with Mrs. Judith Miller, English II, Spanish I, about the quality and price of her latest fashion bargain.

Mrs. Ida Mintz, Latin I, II, Personal Typing, discusses her student's problems with Miss Martha Archbell, French I, Latin II.

Understanding

Students use the language lab for extra drill in pronunciation and fluency.

Miss Elizabeth Boles, English II, III, French I, and Mrs. Elizabeth West, French II, III, reenact a scene from "The Barber of Seville," a French opera.

Cultural And Practical Arts

Mrs. Laura Sewell, Home Economics I, Family Relations, Child Care, and Mrs. Shirley Glover, Head of Home Economics Department, Home Economics II, Food, Clothing, pin an evening gown, while Mrs. Jewell South, Home Economics II, Foods, Clothing, measures for fitting.

Mr. Jay Arledge, Art I, II, III, illustrates the technique of kiln firing of pottery for art students.

Stimulate Varied Interests

Cultural study attracts the talented at New Hanover. Each skill learned stretches a student's versatility in his future life.

Home economics classes enroll mostly girls, but this year a boys' class enrolls twenty pupils. These boys are learning basic skills which may later be helpful to them. Also, new courses in clothing and foods are a part of the 1965-1966 program.

Work with mosaics, oil painting, and house plans interests many students in art classes. Enameling on copper is a new craft for art pupils. Colorful pieces of jewelry and decorations in the Indian style will be the products of enamel study.

This year in vocal classes student directors, Sheila Price and John Cheek, are developing skill in leading the choruses. Quartets and ensembles help the individual depend on himself instead of relying on others. Mr. William A. McAdams this year assumed directorship of the one hundred thirteen-member school band. Concerts and dances are helping to raise added funds for the group.

Public speaking and dramatics teach students to express themselves. Practical experience in study of famous drama includes Oedipus Rex and Sophocles.

Practical arts, drama, and fine arts work unitedly at New Hanover.

John Cheek receives instruction on an allegro movement from Mr. William McAdams, Music Theory, Band, ROTC Band.

Mrs. Janie Yates, Dramatics, Speech, records a lesson in voice inflection for drama students.

Mr. Bob Alexander, Music, Hanover Singers, rehearses selections from the American cantata to be presented by the Hanover Singers.

Using a time line, Miss Ruth Spence, Bible I, II, III, explains the periods of Bible history.

Library Replaces Desk

Delighted expressions of students around the record player make browsing readers wonder what the secret is. Students enjoy every type of music from Beethoven's Sonatas to The Sound of Music.

Library assistants, busy behind the new desk, check out books and collect the inevitable fines.

When English classes file through to inspect the shipment of new books, the library becomes a center of activity. As term paper deadlines come closer, frantic seniors ransack the library shelves for every detail of available information.

Sheila Price searches for a back issue of Life in the library.

Bible Classes Study The History Of Religion

In his search for understanding of himself, the student turns to his religion. The one hundred students of Miss Ruth Spence's classes study the Bible as an explanation and history of their religion.

In their classroom in the Trinity Methodist Church, Bible students study both the New and Old Testaments, seeking the metaphysical in the tangible record.

Librarians Miss Fannie O'Keef and Miss Martha Cromartie find the new desk efficient in checking out books.

Miss Frances Formy-Duval, Head of English Department, English IV, selects a supplementary text from her personal library.

Grammar, Literature Form Basis Of Study

In an effort to understand the intricacies of grammar, each student works at the seemingly endless fill-in-the-blanks exercises. Clauses, précis, footnotes, and grammar rules are part of the task of teaching the student to speak and write the English language. The senior's term paper channels his curiosity and teaches him exactness. Twenty-two teachers help the students of New Hanover analyze an author's style and interpret his meaning.

Ten new sets of supplementary books aid in the teaching of English. These include four modern biographies, four American biographies, novels for appreciation, and anthologies of verse.

Mrs. Diane Burton (right), English IV, explains a schedule to student teacher, Mrs. Peggy Wilson.

Mr. Richard Henderson, English II, III; Mr. Douglas Cochrane, English III; and Mr. Bruce Jones, English I, U. S. History, discuss their day's activities as they leave New Hanover at the conclusion of Friday classes.

Mrs. Bonnie Daniel, English II, and Mrs. Peggy Gandy, English III, IV, descend the faculty stairs on their way to the cafeteria.

English Students Learn Precise Communication

Many technical aids added to the English Department this year facilitate a more graphic explanation of the subject. Seven wall movie screens have been installed. The new stereo makes the study of ballads much more memorable.

A cart with an electric outlet makes the stereo and new tape recorder more portable. Adding to the interest of the course are a slide projector, a movie projector, and twelve new albums.

Miss Helen Blanks, English II; Mrs. Margaret Geary, English IV; Mrs. Helen Younger, English II; and Mrs. Joyce Weathers, English III, are enjoying the Christmas party in Mr. West's office.

Sociology, English IV; and Miss Phyllis Shaw, English III,

Mrs. Jane Price, English II, IV, and Mr. Kenneth Medders, English II, make plans for a grammar review before final exams.

Mrs. Mildred Modlin, English III, Journalism I, II, and Miss Helen Dobson, English II, Journalism III, compare layouts and photography.

Sharing their mutual interest in dramatics, Miss Martha Stack, English III, and Mr. James Potter, English III, look through a Thespian scrapbook.

Mr. J. L. Watters, Machine Shop, trims a part on a lathe as Mr. Justin Kornegay, Carpentry I, II, looks on.

Shops Teach Skills

Courses offered by the Trained Industrialists Department prepare students for jobs immediately after completion of training. In Machine Shop Courses I and II student machinists receive complete instruction in operation of lathes, drill presses, and other types of machine shop equipment. These courses provide valuable experience in performing high precision work and in working close tolerances which are essential for a highly industrialized civilization. In Mechanical Drawing courses students learn about geometric sketching, drafting, scale drawing, and develop the basic skills necessary to become a draftsman or an architect. Wide interest in the growing field of electronics has led to the establishment of a course in radio and television repair. Students learn proper techniques of building and repairing radio and television sets. Mechanics of tomorrow learn the intricate operation of modern engines in the courses offered on internal combustion engines. Junior mechanics daily study the source of power and the motion of the pistons, the connecting rods and the drive shaft. Cabinet-making is one of the skilled crafts taught in the carpentry course. Quality is stressed most of all as students build chairs, tables, chests, and cabinets in a wide variety of models and styles.

Mr. David Stillman, Mechanical Drawing I, shows Mr. Frank Kovacs, Mechanical Drawing II, General Metals, the good features of a geometric drawing made by one of his students.

Mr. Paul Matthews, Basic Electronics, Shop Math; Mr. Henry White, Radio and T.V. Repair, Electronics I, II; and Mr. R. C. Pennington, Engines I, II, discuss latest VO-AG developments.

Activities

Executive Department Initiates

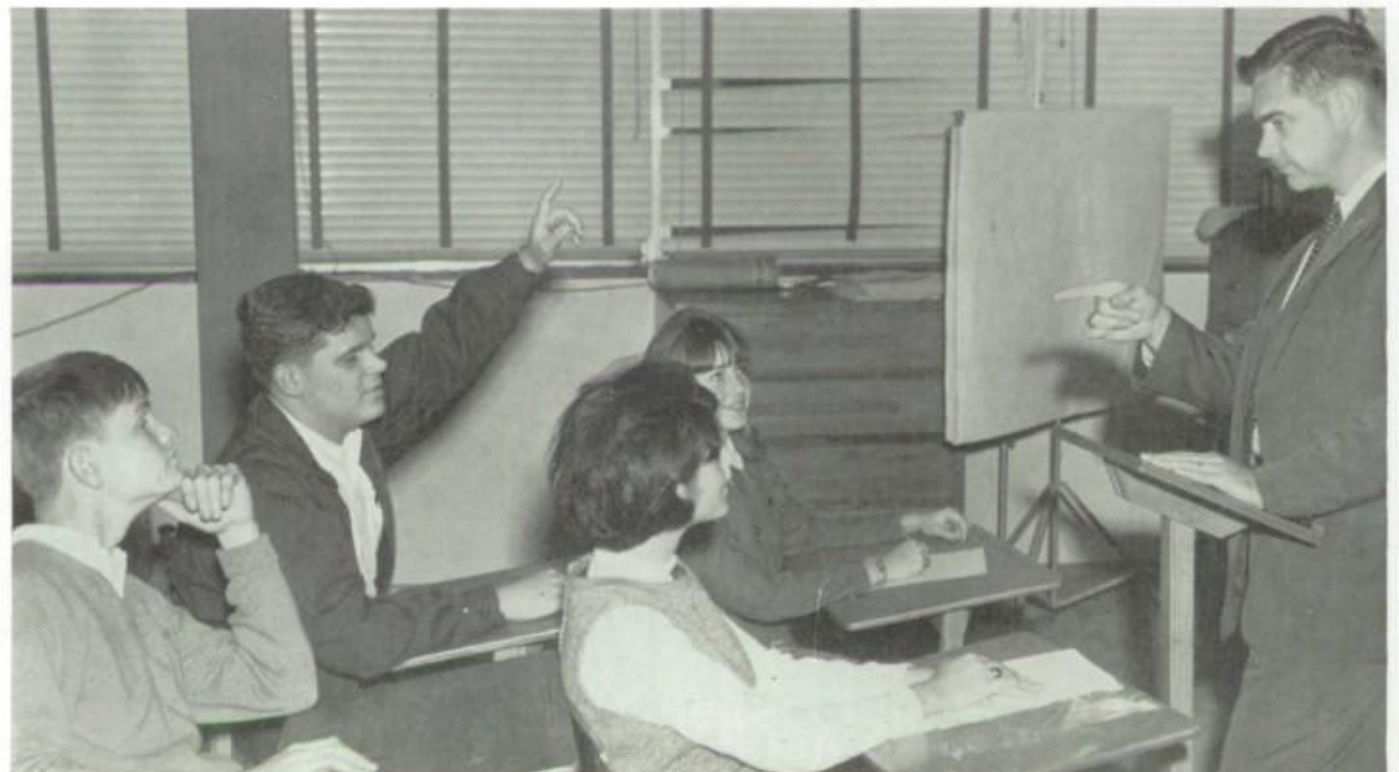

President of the Student Body, Bobby Wilson.

Keeping Student Government running smoothly for 2,800 students is the responsibility of the student body officers. Together Bobby Wilson, John Jordan, and Jeanne Johnson coordinate all school activities. This year they originated the Leadership Training classes and arranged for the new sophomore and junior ID cards. Last spring the Eastern District North Carolina Student Council Congress elected Jeanne Johnson as secretary. Early in November Bobby Wilson and Jeanne Johnson represented our school at the state meeting of the North Carolina Student Council Congress. In March Bobby, Jeanne, and John attended the spring meeting of the Eastern District Congress. Bobby served as a discussion leader while Jeanne and John attended discussions on Leadership Training.

Vice-President John Jordan and Secretary Jeanne Johnson listen to a correction in the minutes.

Get-Acquainted Dance

Members of the cabinet form an advisory board for the president of the Student Body. But much of their real work takes place behind the scenes arranging schedules for the school and book stores, purchasing fruit baskets for the football team, organizing Clean-Up Week.

Cabinet members guided tours and assisted with refreshments for Orientation Day. In late September the school store held a special sweat shirt sale. In December the Secretary of Welfare collected a Christmas Offering of $512. Also for Christmas the Secretary of Appropriations organized the decorating of the Student Union. This included decorating two Christmas trees. The Cabinet designated February 11 as "Fill Brogden Hall" night. Following the final home basketball game, the Executive Department sponsored a social. New projects for this year include sponsoring the Get-Acquainted Dance and supervising the construction of the twelve voting booths for student body and class elections.

Leslie Allen, Secretary of Finance, and Harold Inman, Chief Judicial Marshal, assist Wallace Ambrose, Junior Class President, in selecting a sweat shirt.

Senior Class President Dick Slack and Sophomore Class President Tommy Pollard glance over the budget for the Hospitality Committee while Connie Branch, Secretary of Hospitality, explains it.

Bobby Morton, Secretary of Elections, and Carole Schwartz, Secretary of Public Relations, help Laura Elmore, Secretary of Welfare, restock the Student Congress Book Store.

Members of the House and Senate work industriously on all school projects. This year they attended Leadership Training classes once a month. At the first meeting of these classes Mr. Gary Widenhouse, associate principal, instructed House and Senate members in parliamentary procedure. Preceding the first home football game, all Student Congress members turned out to help build the bonfire. In early October senators and representatives elected the six student judges. Senators and representatives helped conduct the sophomore class elections. They also organized the Constitution Revisions Committee and began working on several major revisions in the school constitution. The Legislative Department sold white "mums" in connection with "Fill Brogden Hall" night and the Valentine Dance. House and Senate members organized and participated in a pen pal system with Athens, Greece. Throughout the year Student Congress members operated the school book store. Each semester during Clean-Up Week they removed all trash and paper from the campus. On every hand Student Congress members take the initiative in NHHS activities.

Homeroom Chairmen Select DAR Candidates

Homeroom chairmen Carole Blythe and Ann Bowman count money collected for the Thanksgiving Offering.

Nominating eight candidates for the DAR Good Citizen award, distributing newspapers, collecting Thanksgiving and Christmas offerings, conducting the annual Red Cross Drive—all these duties keep the homeroom chairmen active. Coordinating the activities of seventy-four homerooms located among four buildings is quite a difficult job but one that they manage capably.

Mary Broadfoot, room 113 homeroom chairman, gives Phyllis Dinsmore her copy of the Wildcat.

Students Disciplined By Judicial Department

Together Harold Inman, chief judicial marshal, and Colonel King, advisor, direct the squad of fifteen judicial marshals. This year, due to a bill passed by the House and Senate, the marshals may give underclassmen tickets for climbing the senior steps. Patrolling the halls and stairways in the main building is much more difficult this year because of the increased enrollment. To cover assignments regulating traffic which involves twenty-eight hundred students and a faculty of one hundred twenty-one is the mammoth task of these marshals.

Wayne Leonard, student judge, and Dan Shepard, chief judge, listen to a defendant's plea while Lee Furr, clerk, records the minutes.

Howard Neuwirth, George Sloan, and Charlie Brindell, student judges, glance over the agenda before court.

Decisions! Is he guilty? What's the penalty for climbing the senior stairs? A week of ninths? An argument—finally a conclusion.

This year student court meets in room 41 every Thursday afternoon. Chief Justice Dan Shepard and his five assistant judges consider all cases carefully.

Immediately following the sophomore elections, the friendly social marshals dressed in gay costumes welcomed new students, teachers, and newly elected Student Government officers to an old-fashioned ice cream parlor.

In December all of the social marshals ushered at the Thespian production, The Diary of Anne Frank. Several weeks before the Christmas holidays the social marshals set up and decorated a large Christmas tree in the school lobby. On February 12 the social marshals sponsored the Valentine Dance. Cupids and hearts decorated the Student Union. Other yearly projects included ushering at PSTA meetings and sponsoring the May Dance.

Handbook

Composed of twenty-two members, the 1965-1966 Orange and Black Handbook committee is the largest one in the history of NHHS. This enlarged staff made possible early completion of the handbook before the end of the 1965 school year.

On the first day of school each student received a handbook. For sophomores and transfer students this was a necessity. To have a copy in hand helped them become acquainted with their new school. In it they could find the answers to many of their questions and the solutions to their problems. Returning students found that they needed something to inform themselves of the changes and additions at NHHS.

A new curriculum section—containing information about entrance and graduation requirements, diplomas, curriculum opportunities, and a summary of courses—adds value to this year's booklet. Because of changes within the faculty and administration from year to year, the usual list of faculty members was omitted, since the '65-'66 edition will serve as official NHHS handbook for the next several years.

Student Congress Publishes Guide Books

Telephone Directory

The record breaking student registration at NHHS proved to be a major problem for the 1965-1966 Telephone Directory committee. Compiling 3,000 names, addresses, and telephone numbers was the tedious job of the ninety committee members.

Early in the fall the workers began by dividing into four sub-committees: typing, alphabetizing, sales, and proofreading. The first job was to distribute the questionnaires to the students through the homerooms. After these were completed and returned to the staff, the Directory began to form. Geometry classroom 309 became the headquarters for their editing.

On the Monday after Thanksgiving vacation the new Directories were distributed.

"Willie the Wildcat" decorates the cover of the '65-'66 Directory. Propped leisurely on his elbow, he enjoys a favorite NHHS pastime—"studying" over the phone.

By not selling ads for the Directory this year, the price had to be raised from fifty to sixty cents. Eight hundred and sixty-six sales were made. This was approximately one hundred more than last year.

Joy Wilson and Susan Baggett, co-chairmen, discuss the Directory cover with Briane Batson, designer.

Wanda Malpass of the Christian Service Committee teaches a Bible verse to Jenny Fields and her friends at the Girls' Club.

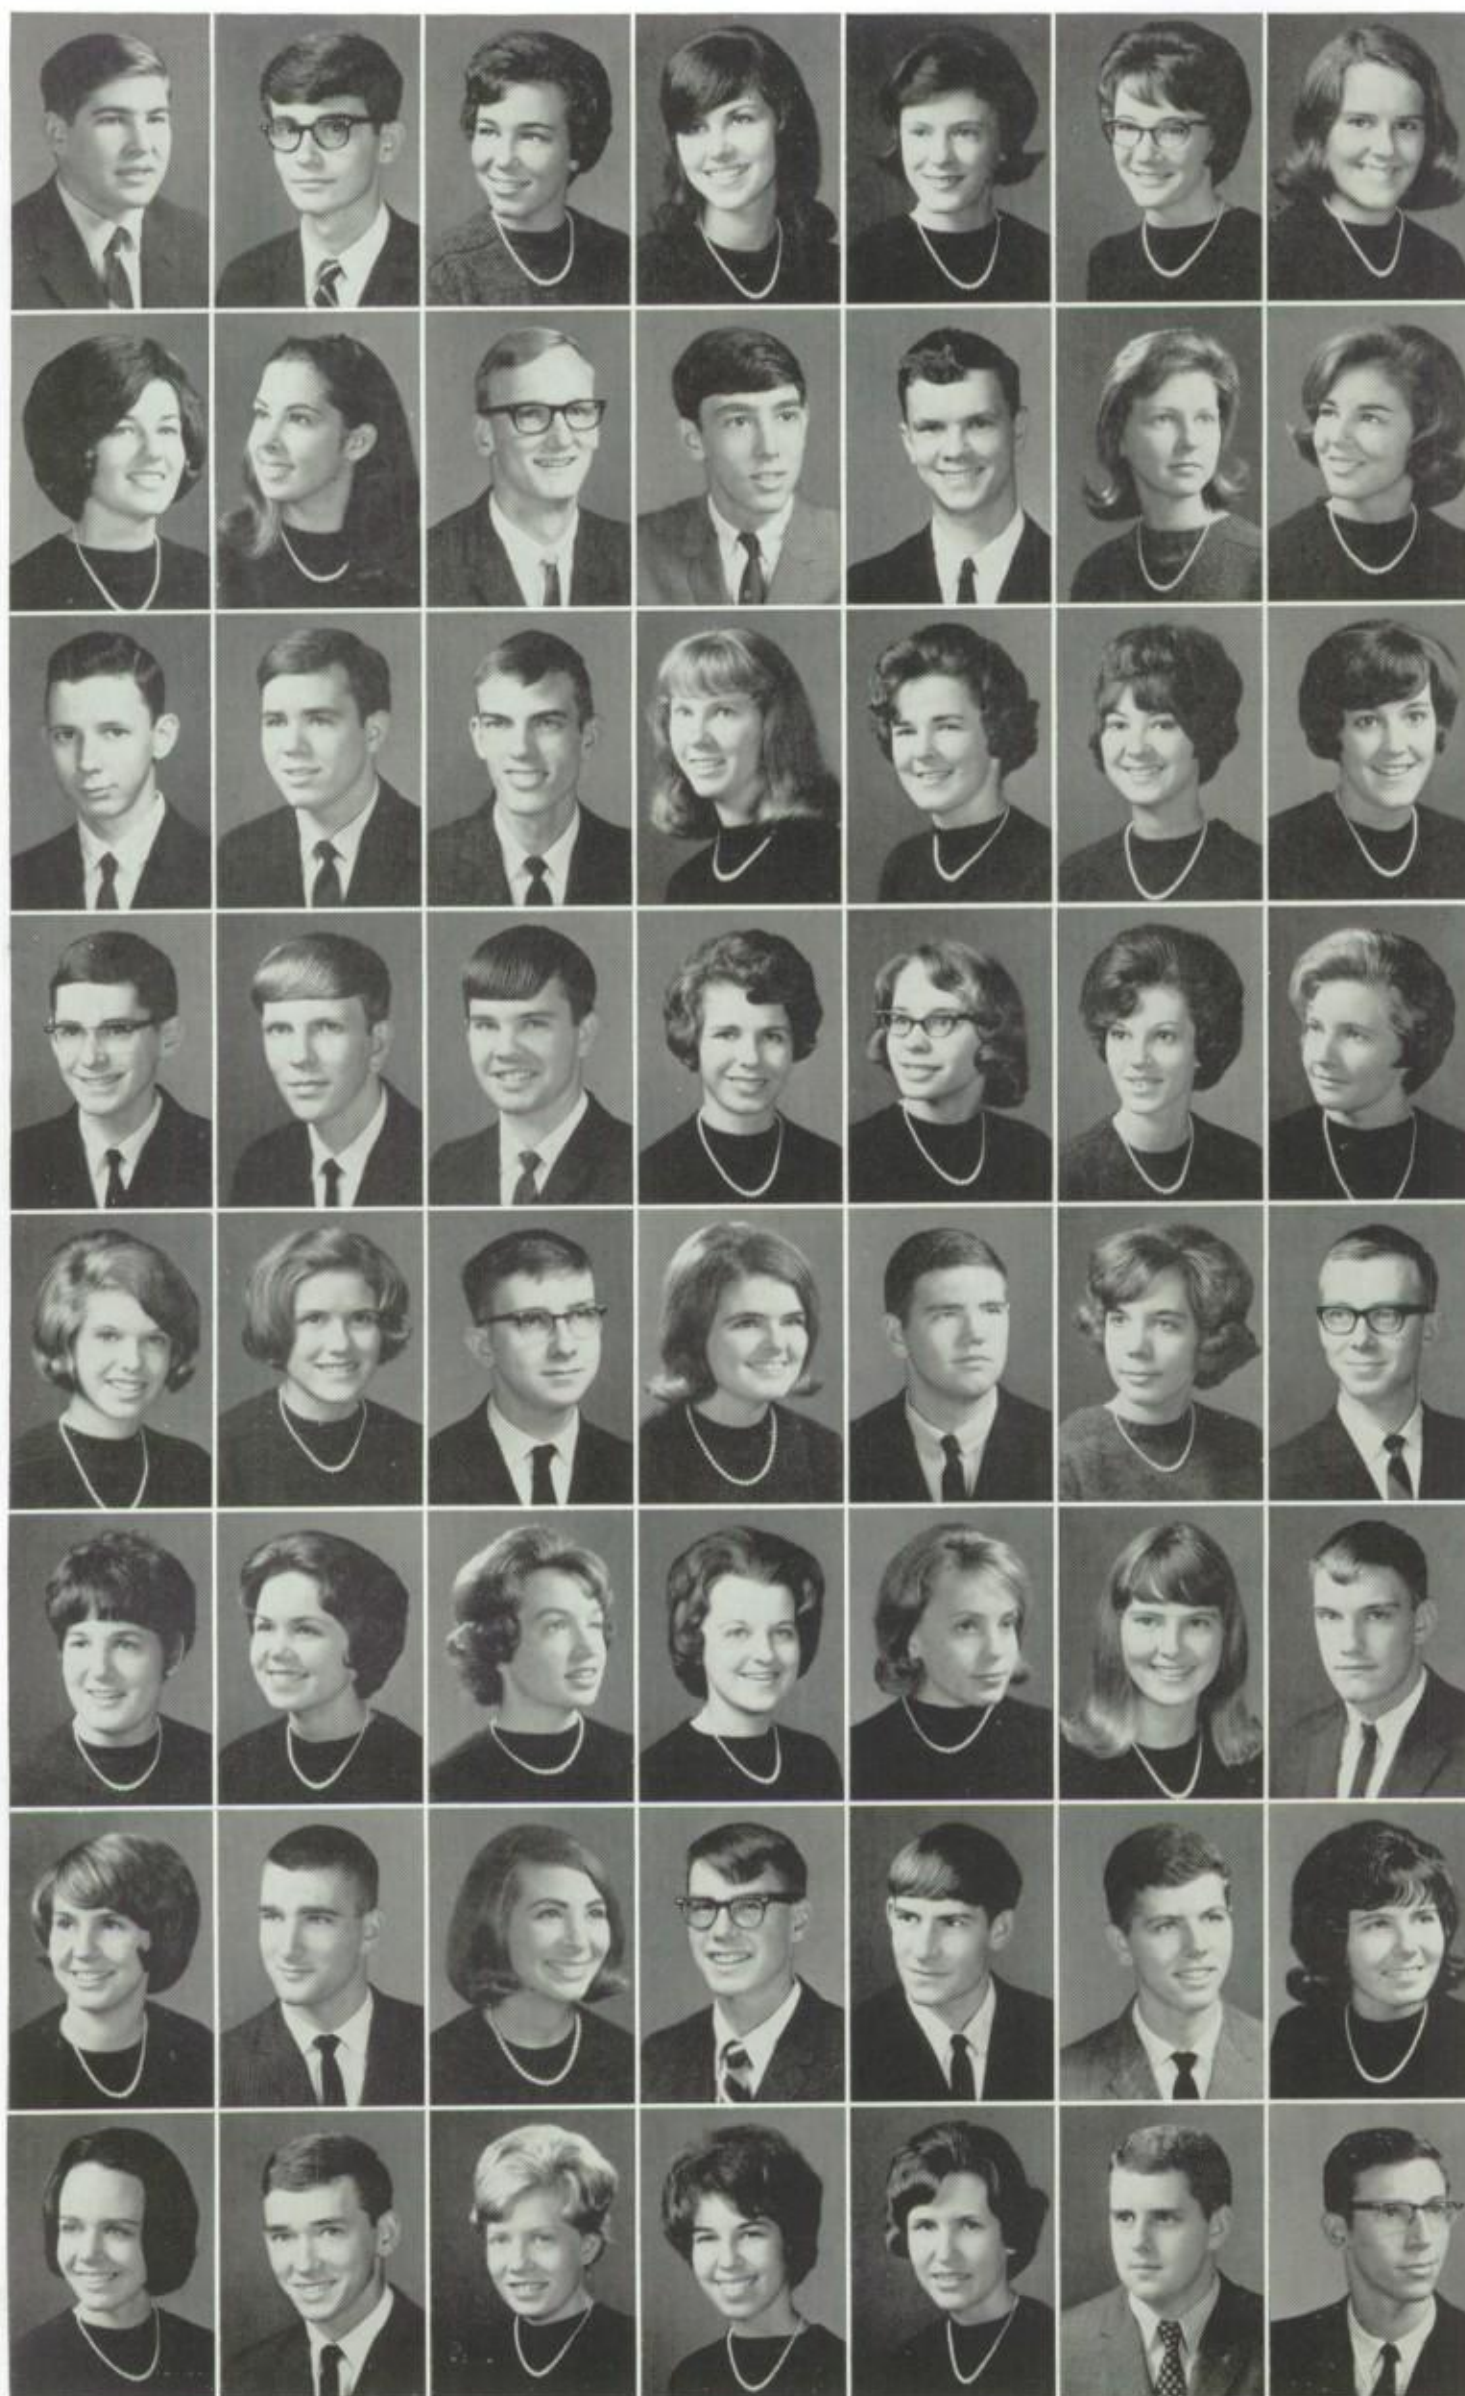

By developing Christian leadership among its members and promoting Christian living among the students of NHHS, the Bible Club offers a challenge to its forty-four members.

In late October they assisted in Wilmington's Billy Graham Crusade by stuffing prayer packets. Camp Vada Mecum, located fifty miles north of Greensboro, was the site of this year's state-wide Bible retreats, held in the fall and spring. NHHS representatives, impressed by their guest speakers, two missionaries to Sudan, enjoyed their weekend tremendously.

By caroling for patients at Cape Fear and James Walker Memorial Hospitals and also for residents of the Catherine Kennedy Home, members carried the Christmas spirit to those who might have found the season a little bleak. This evening of caroling was climaxed with a social, which was held at St. John's Episcopal Church. Having the theme "An Old Fashioned Christmas," the get-together proved to be a great success. It provided a warm mood that gave the true Christmas spirit to those who were present.

A daily morning devotion, a Bible training class at the Girls' Club of Wilmington, support of an orphan, and the presentation of the Billy Halliburton Award are all ways in which this year's Bible Club served the school and community.

NHS Raises Funds For Robes

Joy Wilson, president, takes a last-minute review of her speech for the fall induction.

In the midst of the Homecoming Parade a small band of hillbillies, dressed in straw hats, overalls, and flannel shirts, cheered and sang as they jogged along in their dilapidated cart. The National Honor Society float proved to be the most amusing and spirited in this year's Homecoming Parade.

Raising funds for robes was a major project this year. In previous years robes used in the induction had to be borrowed from Trinity Methodist Church. A tutoring service, an honor-roll tea, and the preservation of the Amy Bradley Grave Site were a few of the National Honor Society's services to NHHS.

Student Assistants Gain Experience

Office assistants never know what their day is to hold. Each morning they collect the daily report of absentees from every classroom within the school. Very often they carry a personal note to a student while he is in class. One of their major jobs is to tabulate numerical averages and determine each student's standing in his class. They type letters and forms, file records, take telephone messages, and answer many questions for doubtful visitors. Although they receive no subject credit, these students willingly work during their free periods in the administrative offices.

Twenty-nine library assistants helped keep the NHHS library working smoothly this year. Both students and faculty found that these student librarians were of great value to them. In the fall when many of the sophomores began to visit the library, the assistants helped them become familiar with its organization. When over five hundred new books arrived in mid-winter, the girls arranged them in attractive displays. These new books created much extra work—such as, typing cards and classifying the books by the Dewey Decimal System. As seniors began research work on their term papers, library assistants came to their aid. They helped seniors find information in newspapers, magazines, books, and encyclopedias.

A new, large desk of blond mahogany made work in the library more efficient and convenient. Filing cards, shelving books, and checking out reading material for students consumed the majority of their working periods.

Plans Made For Journalism Symposium

Plans for the club's major project this year, a journalism symposium to be held in the fall, were in the hands of Nan Hunter. Unfortunately, conflict with a postponed PSAT date caused cancellation of the symposium. Last spring seventeen neighboring schools received invitations to participate. Plans for the day included two yearbook sessions and four newspaper meetings in the morning followed by a luncheon in the student Union. Later one more session of discussions and a closing address by Mr. Ragan, executive editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, were scheduled. To the '65-'66 Quill and Scroll Club goes credit for all this groundwork laid.

In December members added to the festive atmosphere of New Hanover with a colorful Christmas scene on the lawn showing a Space-Age Santa Claus using a rocketship for a sled. As a community service project the students constructed a Nativity scene for Saint Andrews Presbyterian Church.

During the Azalea Festival in April the artists of New Hanover participated in the art show held at Cottage Lane. Earlier this year members took part in an outdoor art show located on the Student Union patio. Other activities throughout the year included those which gave service to the school—such as, the new price lists for the cafeteria and the Student Union, murals for the Football Final and Christmas dances, and the UPSTAIRS and DOWNSTAIRS signs.

Bright lights, colorful costumes, and plain hard work are the ingredients in the production of drama at New Hanover. Under the direction of Mrs. Janie Yates the Thespians presented the Diary of Anne Frank in the fall. In October the members participated in a drama workshop held in Chapel Hill. There, members saw a presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's The Mikado by the Carolina Playmakers. For the regional drama festival held at Campbell College the members presented three one-act plays: For the Love of a Worm, a children's play; Spoon River Anthology, a collection of Edgar Lee Masters's poems; and How He Lied to Her Husband by George Bernard Shaw.

All Thespians work toward membership in the National Thespian Society, an honor society for drama students. Eight persons became members at the December ceremony, which consisted of a presentation of the seven phases of dramatic art.

Key Club Sponsors Buses To

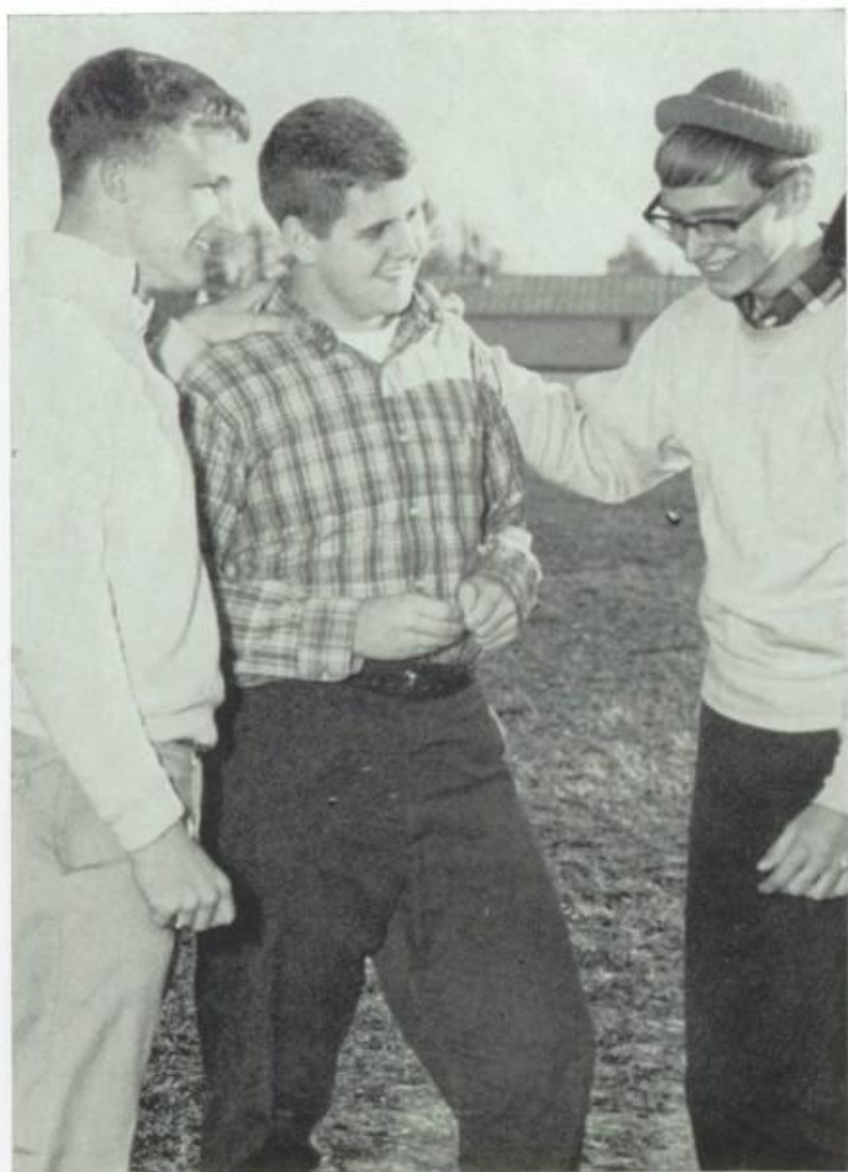

Dan Shepard serves Miss O'Keefe and Mrs. Daniel at the Key Club's annual teachers' banquet.

Thirty of New Hanover's most outstanding young men are members of the Key Club, a service organization sponsored by the local Kiwanis Club.

As service projects for the school the boys chartered buses to the football and basketball games, organized Campus Clean-Up Week, and prepared a banquet for New Hanover High School teachers. For the community, members worked four evenings a week handing out towels and managing an odds and ends booth at the Boys' Brigade Club. This year on Tuesday, October 12, the boys chartered three buses to Raleigh for the State Fair. Another new project was the sending of five delegates to a leadership training conference held in the fall. Friendly rivalry between the Key Club and the Interact group pervaded the gridiron in the annual football contest which was won by the Key Club. In recognition of service to the school, the Key Club Award of the Month went to worthy organizations throughout the year.

The most entertaining project was the Key Club Follies held on April the First and Second. Members themselves participated in the famous Key Club Chorus Line; other students presented a variety of amateur entertainment.

Steve Clemmons and Wallace Ambrose report to Charles Young, president, the victory of the Key Club over the Interact group in their annual football game.

School Spirit Soars During Homecoming Week

Johnny Watkins explains the use of the cards in the cheering sections to John Mavros and Mary Dannaher, co-chairmen of the card section committee.

One of the main instruments in building esprit de corps at New Hanover is the School Spirit Club. Headed by Johnny Watkins, the club organized the most successful Homecoming Week ever held. Activities included eye-catching posters throughout the school and the largest Homecoming Parade yet assembled to boost school and community morale.

Abbe Godwin and Frances Farmer put up a banner encouraging students to attend the basketball games during Christmas holidays.

Later in the year members went all out in a campaign for good sportsmanship during Sportsmanship Week. Again brilliantly colored posters caught the eye. Outstanding guest speakers visited during a special assembly.

Future Homemakers Sing Carols At Nursing Home

This year the twenty members of Future Homemakers of America sang Christmas Carols for the residents of the Grotgen Nursing Home. Afterwards the club presented the patients with tray favors which the girls had made at their Thursday meetings.

Later in the year, the club held a Mother-Daughter Banquet. All dishes for this occasion had been prepared by the girls themselves. On March 17th the Future Homemakers sponsored the Saint Patrick's Day Dance.

Future Teachers Sponsor Faculty Tea

Nearly seventy members attend the meetings held on the fourth Monday of each month to discuss different phases of teaching. The club finds it possible to present yearly a one hundred dollar scholarship. Money for this originates from dues and car washes.

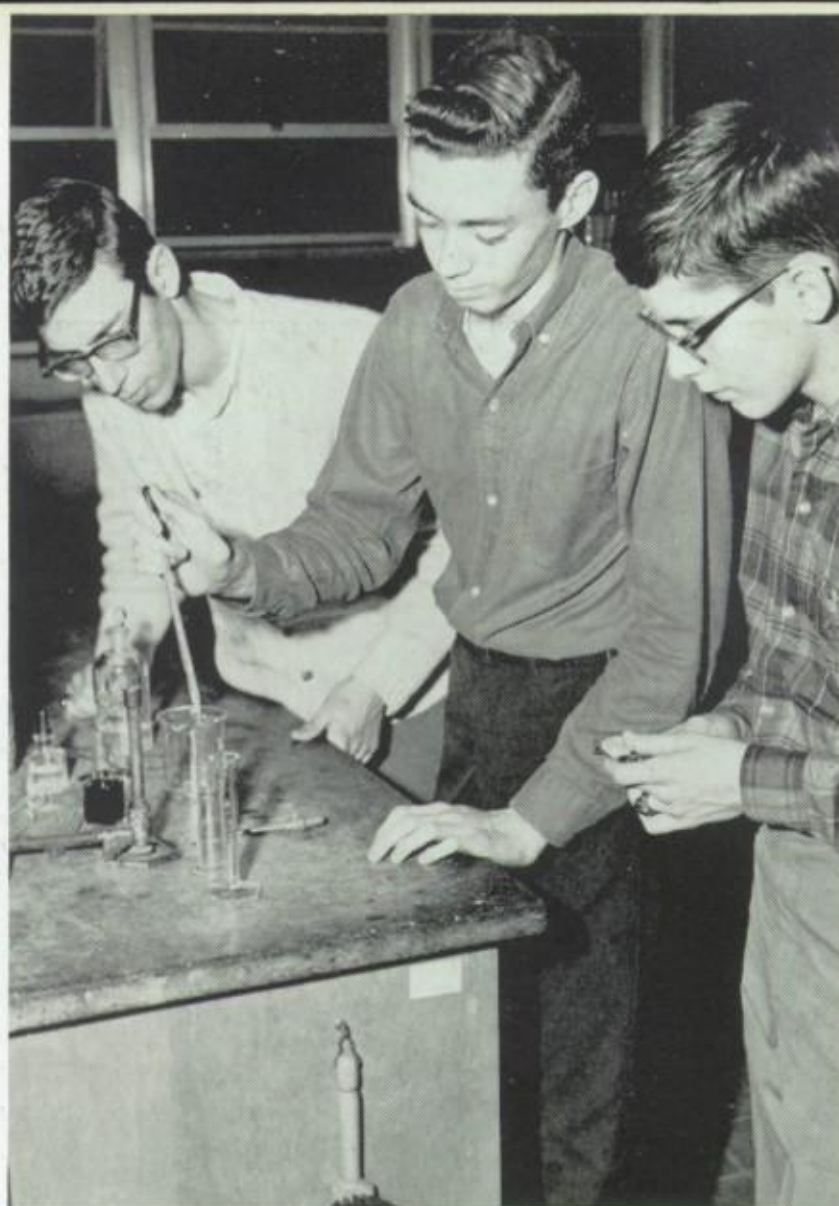

Main events of the year for Future Teachers are the faculty tea held in the fall and the senior banquet held in April.

Car wash provides funds for state convention expense.

Scientists Tour Research Center

Trips to the Cape Fear Technical Institute, the oceanographic research ship, and the labs at James Walker Hospital were all on the agenda for the Future Scientists of America. At James Walker Hospital members toured the premises with Dr. Arley, who told of a new machine developed for counting blood cells.

A film, "New Water for a Thirsty World," shown in January, informed members of new methods for converting saline water to fresh water.

Much of the enthusiasm of the Future Scientists can be seen in one, John New, who has been working now for over a year on a hydrogen ion diffusion project.

Chess Club Participates In Local Tournament

Chess club members John New and David Woodcock engage in a challenging match during a Tuesday meeting.

This relatively small club of New Hanover (twelve members only) is perhaps one of the most active on campus. They meet every Thursday to begin new chess games or to continue those games unfinished at the previous meeting. Members also take part in a local tournament with a junior high school.

Future Nurses Explore Medical Careers

Unique as a club, the Future Nurses of NHHS holds its meetings at hours to accommodate any student interested in a medical career.

Lt. Commander Jacks, naval recruiting nurse for North Carolina, came to NHHS to lecture on the many professional opportunities in the Navy.

Members saw movies—such as, “Mental Health Careers,” “View from the Mountain,” and “This Way to Nursing,” throughout the year on physical therapy, dentistry, rehabilitation, and general nursing.

Latin Club Joins Junior Classical League

The Latin Club this year became a charter member of the Junior Classical League, a branch of the American Classical League of which the majority of members are Greek and Latin professors. As a part of this organization, club members can attend both the North Carolina state convention, held in Chapel Hill during April, and also the national convention.

The Latin Club also holds an annual tea in December, which features the singing of carols in Latin. With other foreign language groups, the Latin Club observes Language Week. During this week the club tries to emphasize the idea that the ancient language Latin even today affects our lives not only in sixty per cent of the words we use but also in the laws to which we adhere and through numerous customs which we observe.

French And Spanish Clubs Observe

Lee Clark and Don Bame, president and vice-president of the French Club, hang a poster in observance of Language Week.

French Club activities lessened somewhat in number this year due to the fact that the club divided into two groups. One group held its meetings entirely in French, while the other group did not. Professor Stites of Wilmington College lectured in French to both groups at the first meeting of the year.

The entire club attended a Christmas party and devoted much time to the making of posters and bulletin boards for Language Week which followed in the spring.

Seniors David Overby and Isabel Scott assort slides to be shown at the January French Club meeting.

Secretary Linda Rivenbark struggles to translate minutes for Spanish Club.

Language Week

A chilly January wind warmed by shouts of "Hola—¿Cómo estás?" greeted the three South American exchange students. Club members, filled with curiosity, were anxious to express a welcome to America and immediately began quizzing the visitors about their language and the customs of their native Peru. The club Christmas party in December and the Language Week Banquet in April were two main events of the year.

Exchange student Yoya Tabja and hostess Maxine Warshauer arrive at school.

Gwen Bellamy and Joy Wilson make plans for the Christmas party.

Government Club Sponsors Lennon's Visit

An alumnus of New Hanover High, Congressman Alton B. Lennon, retraced his steps through the halls and aisles when he appeared before a Government Club session this year. Wilmington's representative to Congress stressed the importance for students to become more interested in their national government by turning from apathy and indifference.

On February second, members heard addresses prepared by students entering the Oratory Contest sponsored by the American Legion.

In the spring students competed for city government positions to be filled on Government Day. Seniors elected to civic positions performed the duties of city officials for an hour's duration.

WILD And Amateur Radio Offer Students Challenge

WILD

"Like—it's WILD!" screamed a sophomore at first hearing the great sound of radio station WILD. Strains of "A Lover's Concerto" and "Hang on Sloop" ring out through the Student Union and provide rhythm for eating, listening, or even thinking. WILD, the voice of New Hanover, broadcasts daily and offers an opportunity for its operators to try a hand at being announcers on professional radio.

Bill Johnson, president, Jimmy Swain, vice-president, and Ken Swain, secretary, receive an interesting transmission.

Bill Cherry prepares to broadcast a popular album.

Amateur Radio

Eleven boys at New Hanover High have organized a club for their favorite hobby—operating ham radios. This club supplies two transmitters and one receiver for the boys to use. Mr. White, a licensed ham operator in Wilmington, discussed with the members his experience in radioing. Amateur Radio members are always ready to serve the community during disastrous hurricanes and similar emergencies.

Lab Assistants Simplify Chemistry

Perhaps the most essential "elements" in the chemistry laboratory are the fifteen lab assistants. Being former chemistry students, they review what they have previously learned as well as aid struggling underclassmen. These helpers spend a period every day in the labs where they either prepare delicate equipment for use in experiments or grade lab reports written by Mrs. LeGwin's or Miss Emmart's chemistry students.

Mechanical Drawing Fascinates Jets

To excel in the arts of engineering is the hope of Jets Club members. At club meetings students shared their constructions with others and tried to perfect these through the aid of their advisors and the direction of outside speakers. Information to the Jets through club channels included the latest in electronics, machine shop, and mechanical drawing.

The Junior Engineers Club at New Hanover High School offers students the opportunity to sharpen their skills in operating machinery used in shop such as lathes and drills. Learning how to use delicate measuring instruments in mechanical drawing at club meetings proves valuable to JETS who plan to study engineering in college.

Cyclists Obtain Club Charter

Amidst the increasing interest in motorcycles, a newcomer appeared on the activities roster—the Cyclist Club, organized this year. Members learned to enjoy cycling with an accent on safety.

At club meetings policemen briefed members on traffic regulations and stressed the importance of safety in riding. Highlight of the year was riding in the Azalea Festival Parade.

Interacts Build Student Gate At Legion Stadium

Students, teachers, and citizens of New Hanover County are grateful to the thirty-six hard-working members of the Interact Club. Interact bus trips to out-of-town football games and an attractive student gate at Legion stadium, built by Interacts, have helped boost school spirit. An ice cream social given early in the fall welcomed all teachers and new students to NHHS. The novel idea of a car smash was enthusiastically received by the students at Homecoming.

Food baskets at Thanksgiving and Christmas made many needy families happy during these holiday seasons. As a money-making and Christmas spirit project, the Interacts decorated downtown parking meters with Christmas wreaths and bows.

One hundred and eight black and orange derbies were ordered and sold by the Interacts at the beginning of the second semester. Each derby had a black and white NHHS Wildcat sticker on it. These derbies helped publicize the "Fill Brogden Hall" night held on February 11. Interacts went all out in their efforts to make "Fill Brogden Hall" night as successful as it was last year.

Numerous foreign and domestic ships which come to Wilmington appreciate the magazines collected and donated by Interact members. Finally, at the close of school, the Interact Club awarded letters to deserving seniors for outstanding scholarship achievement.

DECA Celebrates Twentieth Anniversary

This year marked the twentieth anniversary of DECA. To commemorate National DECA Week, members distributed posters and pamphlets throughout classrooms and placed DE displays in downtown stores. Students participated in a television program, which portrayed DECA activities to the public, and honored with the annual banquet DECA's twenty years of progress and achievement.

Activities of the DECA this year included a job interview contest. The winners then advanced to the District Contest where senior Michael Davis won honors for the New Hanover High School DE Club. By participating in these contests, the members gained poise and confidence.

COO And Other Work Programs Give Banquet

The Cooperative Office Occupations program provides each of its thirty-four members with a part-time job. These jobs enable each worker to obtain the knowledge and skills necessary for further advancement and employment. This year's program consists of thirty-three girls and one boy.

These students serve as bookkeepers, librarians, receptionists, secretaries, telephone operators, and typists. During April the COO members and their employers join the members of the DECA, ICT, and VIC programs in sponsoring an employer-employee banquet. This banquet helps to promote better relations between bosses and workers.

Debaters Help Organize Lejeune Team

On the first and third Monday of each month the eighteen debating club members assembled in room thirty-seven. Competing in teams or as individuals, members based their debates on labor relations management.

Team members divided into groups of about four persons. Each smaller team took the affirmative or the negative stand on certain ideas. It was the responsibility of each team to meet separately and organize their debates. At these planning sessions debaters learned more and improved a great deal by sharing their ideas with one another. During the regular meetings of the entire club the teams presented their debates. By gaining experience and accepting constructive criticism, students were able to develop their skill in logical presentation of data.

Also the NHHS team helped organize another high school debating club at Camp Lejeune. They did this by sending the new team a copy of their constitution and giving them a few suggestions concerning the establishment of their club. Trying to aid the LeJeune team in their development, the NHHS debaters invited them to participate in the district debating contest held at Wilmington College.

Throughout the year NHHS members studied hard and polished their debating techniques so that they might be selected to attend the Spring Speech Festival at Wake Forest College.

VIC Provides Jobs For Members

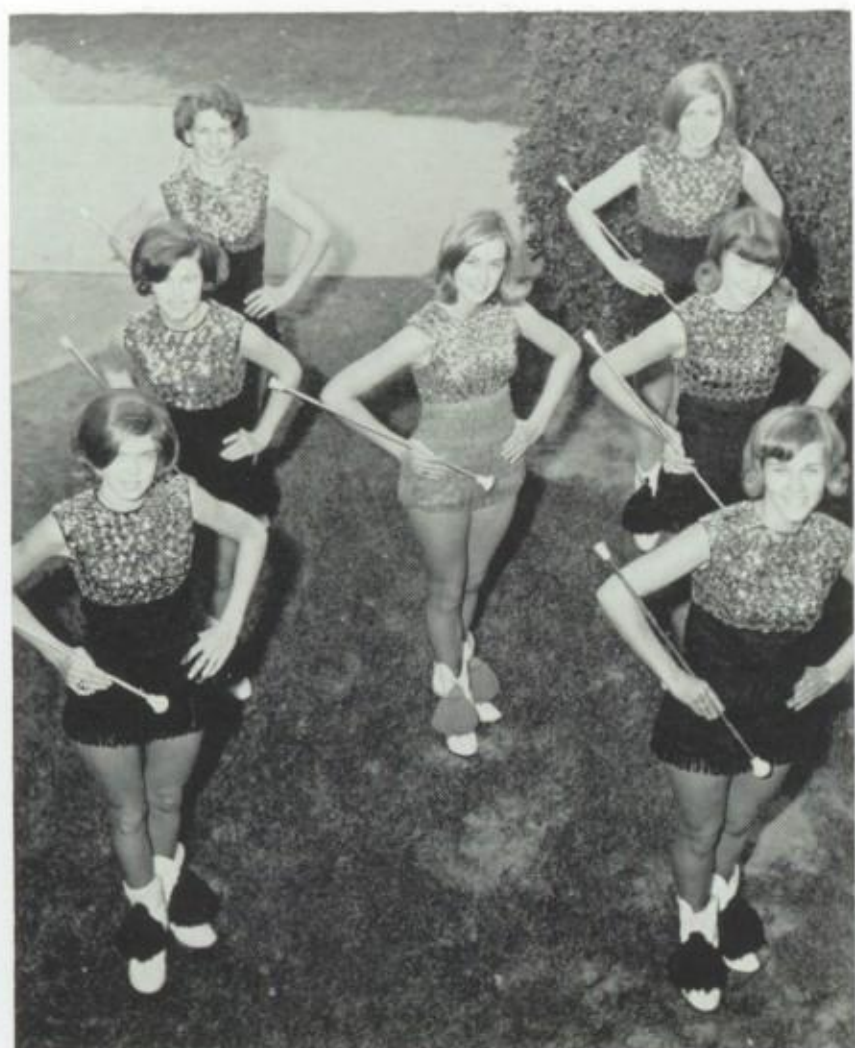

Through the Vocational Industrial Club, twenty-eight students have opportunity to receive valuable occupational training in positions ranging from apprentice morticians to nurses' aides. The VIC's outstanding event of the year is the annual employer-employee banquet held in conjunction with the other occupational training programs. This year about two hundred students, employers, and guests attended the banquet.

New Hanover High School's majorettes really put sparkle into the half-time shows and the Azalea and Christmas parades. Three of this year's seven majorettes are performing members of the band, and at band functions where the majorettes do not perform the remaining girls usher or distribute programs.

Another separately performing group under Mr. McAdams' direction is the dance band, consisting of sixteen members. This year it was host to several out-of-town dance groups at a dance called "Battle of the Bands."

Second period classes in the Industrial Education Building can hear the roll of drums and the blare of horns as the band practices a lively march on its way to the drill field. Mr. William McAdams, new to New Hanover High School faculty, has made of the one hundred fifteen musicians an outstanding playing and marching unit.

Many hours are spent in practice, not only for marching but also for performing. Students make use of several sound-proof practice rooms during free periods and at times may take some music home for further study. They also practice as a whole unit during second period and in sectional rehearsals after school.

Performances besides concerts include half-time shows at football games and marching in the Azalea and Christmas parades. The band also provides music for the Teenage Princess Pageant and competes in district and state contests around North Carolina.

Performs Throughout State

Competition is keen as students from eastern North Carolina secondary school bands vie for places in the eastern division of the All-State Band. When chosen, they rehearse for two days in preparation for a concert. Students from NHHS participating in this year's competition at Greenville were Ike Puzon, Jimmy Johnson, Chris Herring, Harold Henderson, Bobby Lewis, Robert Pontius, Howard Talley, Bennie Fussell, John Cheek, Sue Sellars and Bobby Jones.

New uniforms, acquired in part last year, smartly display the official band colors of orange and black. As a result of a letter, written jointly by Mr. West and Mr. McAdams, the band received one thousand dollars from the Sarah Graham Kenan Foundation, which helped to pay for the uniforms.

Presenting to the school and community choral music at its best has been the goal of the Hanover Singers of 1966. Membership in this, the major performing choral group at NHHS, is by audition only.

The group's public debut at the annual Thanksgiving concert featured a musical cantata from How The West Was Won and various other sacred and secular selections. All students and faculty members enjoyed each of the two other major concerts—the Christmas and spring concerts—presented this year. Besides singing for the school, the Hanover Singers performed before many church and civic groups—such as, the Rotary, Lions, Optimist, and Exchange Clubs.

The Hanover Singers' Ensemble, a select group of twenty singers, made its debut this year. This group performed eight times during the year for organizations not connected with the school.

Hanover Singers produced Finian's Rainbow as the annual musical for 1966. This musical play takes place in a mythical state known as Mississippi. Finian, an Irish immigrant who comes to America in search of wealth and prosperity, brought pleasure to New Hanover audiences.

This year's trip to Greensboro for the State Choral Festival proved to be the highlight of the year.

Glee Club Becomes Co-Ed Group For First Time

As of September 1965 the Girls' Glee Club was no longer for girls only. This year six boys entered the thirty-nine member group to make it co-educational.

Training sophomores for Hanover Singers and Girls' Chorus is the work of the Glee Club. This is achieved through daily scheduled rehearsals and a few afternoon practices.

Because this is meant to be a training group and not a performing group, the Glee Club appears in programs twice each year. The group made its public debut at the New Hanover County Music Festival in the spring of 1966. Its second public performance was at the North Carolina District Choral Festival, held this year here at New Hanover High School. Singing before the public has given these girls and boys valuable experience in preparation for the major performing choral group of New Hanover High.

Wildcat Continues In Award-Winning Tradition

Reporters on their beats, typewriters going full tilt, people to interview, stories to write—this is the life and lingo of the Wildcat. It is an active life, full of the who's, what's, when's, where's, why's, and how's that keep the NHHS students aware and informed.

Every Friday the Wilmington Star News publishes a school page edited by a Wildcat student. Journalism II students volunteer for positions as editors for the first semester, and editors for the second semester come from the Journalism I students in the same way. Each editor plans his own page and assigns stories to his fellow students.

An average person walking into the Wildcat office around deadline time sees nothing but confusion, but from it emerges New Hanover High School's award-winning newspaper.

Checking out an ad problem, Stephanie Olsen, editor-in-chief, talks to the printer while Mrs. Modlin, faculty advisor, Charlotte Murchison and Sally Jones, business co-managers, listen.

Hanoverian Enlarges Staff, Dimensions Of Book

A yearbook is a pictorial history of one school year. It is a memory book of sports, dances, organizations, and faces neatly pictured and bound. These pictures bring back fleeting memories of warm moments, and the words record events that make each year significant. In years to come, this HANOVERIAN will wipe away the dust of time and shed light on forgotten days. . . .

George Sloan, assistant, types as Steve Merritt, ROTC staff head, stands over him with more work.

There is always an aura of industriousness around room 205 at seventh period. The door is constantly opening and closing, admitting people to the realm of secrecy and activity. At one time or another during the school year this group of people comes in contact with every school function—faculty, administration, student activities, sports, and ROTC. They coordinate pictures with the theme “Last Shadows of Youth,” and the colors of blue and silver.

Examining the serious and funny sides of school life, they capture in words and pictures the events of 1966 at NHHS.

Three faculty advisors, plus an enlarged staff of twenty-seven members, make up a fiercely proud group. They have one dominant purpose—to produce for the students of NHHS the 1966 HANOVERIAN.

Wildcats Show Spirit And Determination Throughout

Combining skill and experience, the Wildcats of New Hanover showed great promise in their opener with non-conference Kinston by running up their highest score of the season, 26 to 15, to defeat the Red Devils in their own stadium. The following week, in spite of a gallant defense against top-ranking Raleigh Broughton, the 'Cats suffered their first loss by the score of 19 to 0. Determined to avenge themselves, the NHHS team traveled to Rocky Mount to whip the Blackbirds in a close 7 to 0 game. Misfortune again plagued the squad as on two successive weeks they dropped games to both Durham and Goldsboro. Refusing to let the defeats get their spirits down, the 'Cats roared back to shutout a fine New Bern team, 14 to 0. Pepped up by support from the student body, the Port City boys showed their style in one of their best games of the season as they downed Raleigh Enloe 20 to 6 to the delight of a large Homecoming Weekend crowd. At Wilson the ensuing weekend, a scrappy Cyclone team held the 'Cats in the final moments of the contest to take the game from the battling Wilmingtonians. In one of the best attended games of the season a large Fayetteville team journeyed to the Wildcats' own backyard for the New Hanover ROTC Night contest. Luck again deserted the hometown team as the crowd watched them succumb to a snappy offensive game by the Bulldogs. The final contest, held in Jacksonville at the Cardinals' new stadium, found Wilmington's Wildcats ready for action and determined to close out their year with a win. Led by a brilliant defensive effort that held the Cardinals to minus yardage for much of the game, the 'Cats took the lead and held on to finish the '65 season with a win. The triumph over Jacksonville furnished the Wildcats with a 3-5 conference average and a 5 won, 5 lost overall record.

Co-captains for the '65 season were offensive halfback David Brown and defensive lineman Stuart Laney.

To distinguish the outstanding player of each game, the coaching staff initiated a policy of presenting a plaque and recognizing the player in the local newspaper. This policy brings attention to outstanding achievement by the players and urges the team to strive for greater perfection. During the '65 season seniors Jerry Martin, Dick Slack, David Donnell and juniors Richard Armstrong and Larry Canady each won the award of Player of the Week. Special honors went to seniors Bob Mizelle and Danny Eason, who each received the trophy twice for their outstanding efforts on the gridiron.

Halfback Larry Canady (31) carries the ball as Jack Rasberry from his path.

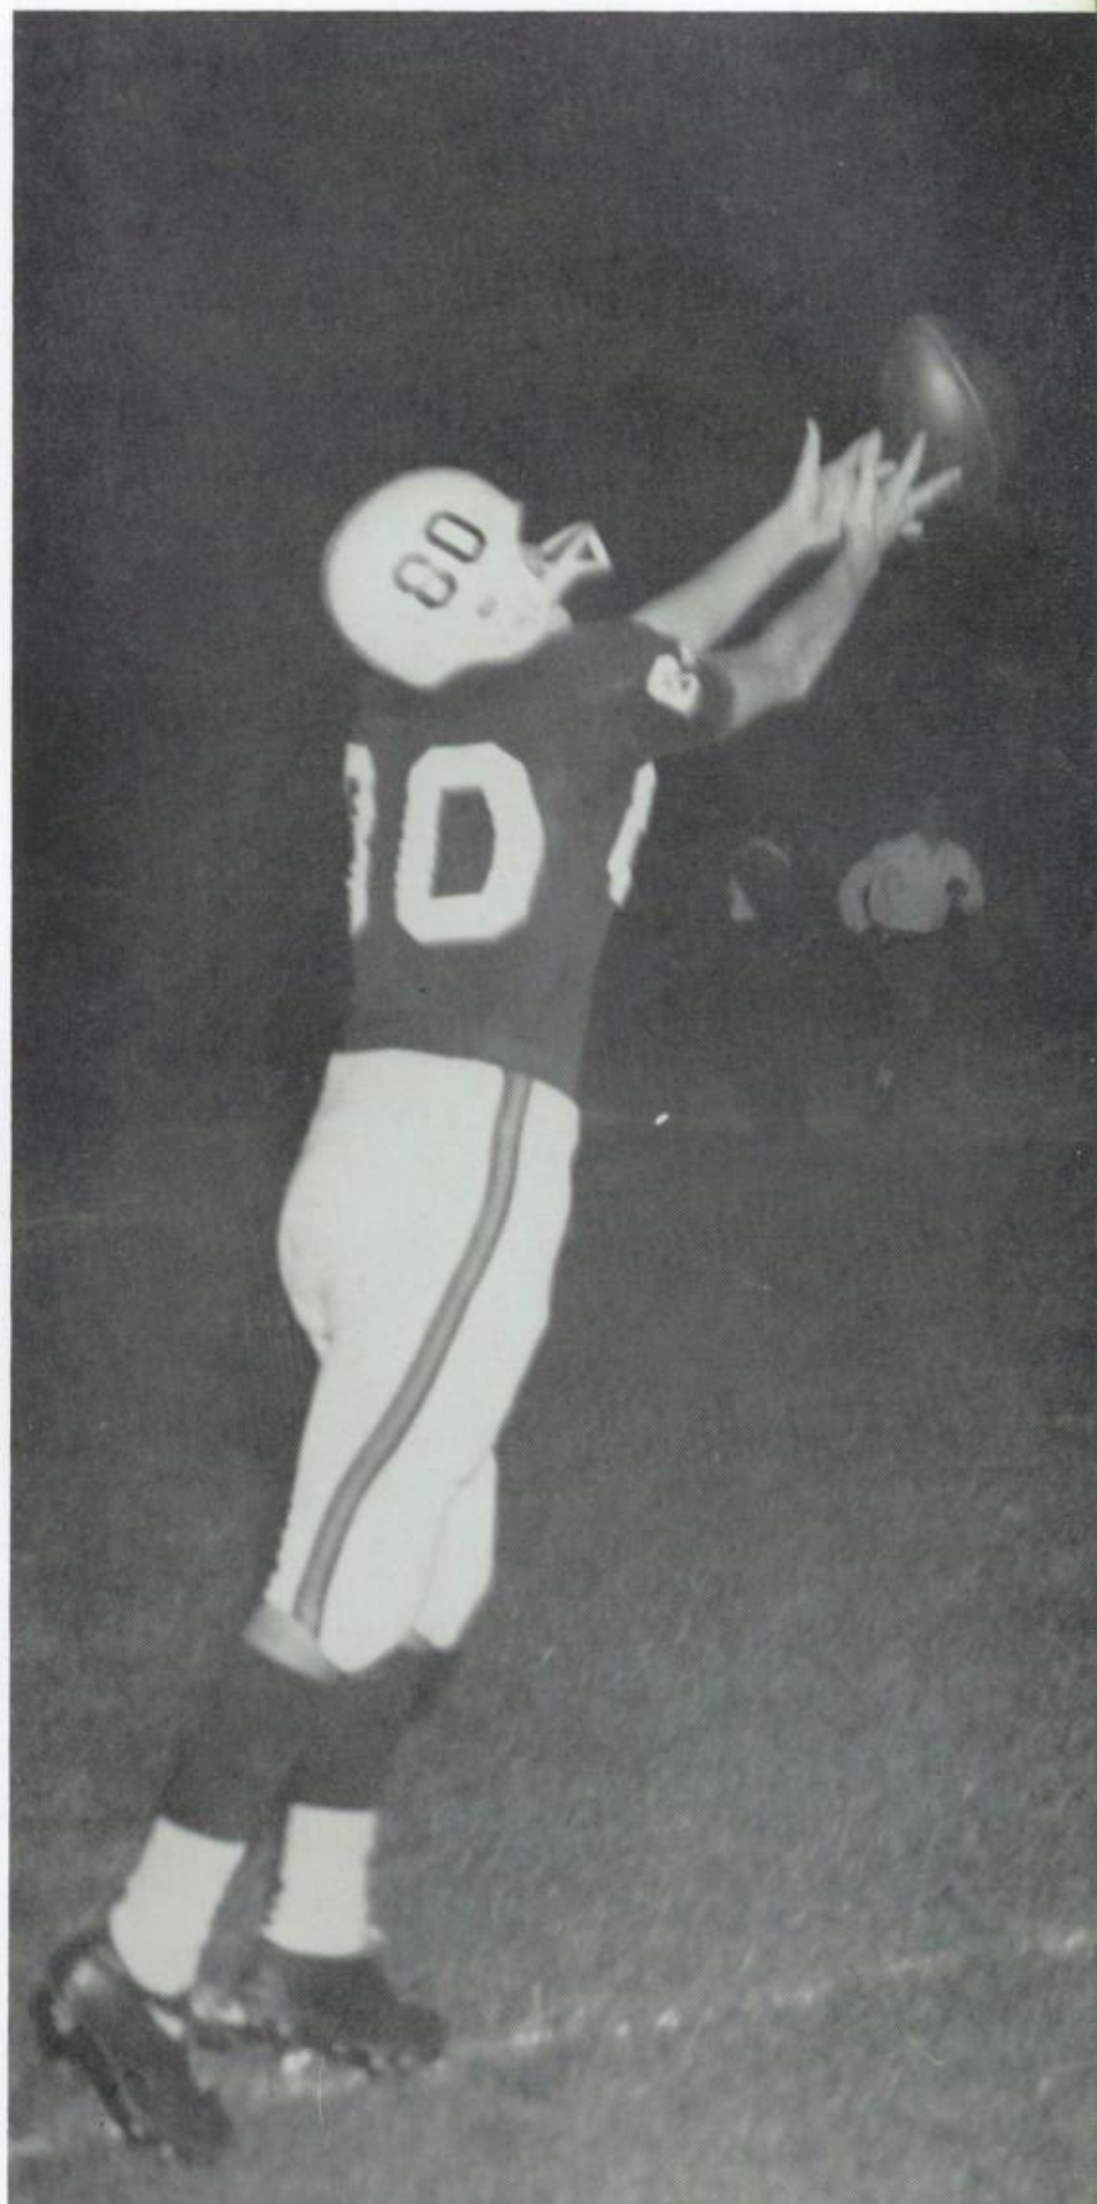

The Football Finals Dance was the stage for the presentation of the "Most Valuable Player Award." This distinction went to linebacker Danny Eason for his tremendous contributions on defense. Danny also received the honor of being selected for the second string of the 4A All-State Football Team.

Kittens Show Great Promise

The Wildkittens, led by Coach Paul Maulsby, opened their season with a conservative 7 to 7 tie with the Red Devils of Kinston. In their second battle the jayvees trounced the Jacksonville eleven, 39 to 12. The following week the Port City team added a second tie to their record in a tough contest with Rocky Mount's Blackbirds. The spirited young 'Cats then romped over Goldsboro, 34 to 18, in their fourth battle of the '65 season. Spurred on by two wins, the Kittens held New Bern's club scoreless while 34 points across the goal line. The following weekend the lively Kittens snowed the Cyclones of Wilson with a six-touchdown avalanche to keep the Port City team's undefeated record. Good defensive efforts by both the Bullpups and the Wildkittens held each club to two touchdowns apiece, but a fatal missed point gave the scrappy Fayetteville team a deciding one point edge over Wilmington. In the final battle of the year the young Cardinals of Jacksonville nipped New Hanover's Wildkittens 13 to 12 in a bristling defensive effort by both teams. Closing with this game, the NHHS Wildkittens finished with a commendable 4-2-2 record for the '65 season.

Harriers Achieve Best Record

Led by Mr. Frank Farrow, a spirited New Hanover Cross Country Track Team romped to an easy victory over Southern Pines, 20-42, in their first meet of the 1965 season. In the following contest, in a sport where the low score wins, NHHS succumbed to a tough Chapel Hill squad by only ten points. The Wilmington Club then raced to a one-sided victory over Fayetteville, 18-47, in the third contest of the young season. After capturing a win from Goldsboro, the harriers trounced Fayetteville, 15-50, in a fine display of running. In the second seasonal struggle with Goldsboro, the 'Cats gained their fifth win as they out-sprinted the Earthquakes, 19-44. The NHHS harriers, paced by co-captains Roger Shephard and Al Cooke, placed a close second behind Chapel Hill with Southern Pines taking third position in the first tri-meet of the '65 season. The determined harriers then advanced to the North Carolina State Track Meet where they won a commendable sixth place in competition with 163 runners from 28 schools.

Port City Team Rallies Efforts In Season's

Co-captains Jerry Martin and David Pratt provide the scoring punch for the Wildcats.

Determination characterized the Wildcat basketball team. Practicing everyday, the Wilmingtonians drilled hard to get their plays working smoothly. With only five seniors on the club, the coaches spent much time going over the basic Wildcat offenses; consequently, it was a severe disappointment when Durham edged out the 'Cats in their opening game of the season. Coordinating their efforts, Wilmington came back in the next game against Goldsboro but failed to retain their organization. Dropping the two following games to Broughton and High Point, the 'Cats went into the Christmas Tournament with a 1-3 record. While losing their first contest, the New Hanover team managed to defeat Greenville the following night for their second win of the season. Luckless Jacksonville, Wilmington's next opponent, was given a sound twenty-five point beating. Wilson dimmed the 'Cats' hopes temporarily, but the Port City team came back strong to take one from Rocky Mount 68-49. The following weeks played havoc with the club as they lost their teamwork while dropping games to Enloe, Fayetteville, and Durham. Fortune changed for the 'Cats in their next two games with once beaten Goldsboro and Jacksonville both losing by sizable margins. With hopes again high, it was a hard letdown as two more games slipped through the team's fingers before they rallied to give Rocky Mount their second twenty-point drubbing. Realizing the need for another victory to place them in the playoffs, Wilmington united for their last two games. Racing Enloe to the wire, the Raleigh team just managed to sneak through to a three-point victory. Fayetteville, the last team on the season schedule, tried in vain to imitate Enloe. Stubborn and relentless, the NHHS boys played one of their most outstanding games of the year to grab a seven-point win from the Bulldogs. This victory gave the 'Cats an 8-19 record for the season and clinched for them sixth place in the 4A Conference.

Concluding Games

Journeying to Durham the following week, Enloe received a shock as Wilmington pulled out to defeat the 'Caps 50-48. Wilmington's luck failed to last, however, and in the following contest with conference champion, Durham, New Hanover's team lost its only chance for the championship playoffs.

Junior Varsity Team Gains Experience And Ability

An enthusiastic Junior Varsity Basketball team opened their season with a narrow defeat from a tough Durham squad. Downed by Goldsboro in their second match, the Kittens dropped their next contest to Raleigh Broughton. Traveling to Jacksonville, the Kittens then launched a dramatic defensive effort, only to be handed a three-point loss from the young Cards in the final minutes of the battle. During the following week the Wilson Cyclones squeaked by NHHS, 67-66. In a clash with Rocky Mount, the young Blackbirds dealt the Kittens a losing score. After these defeats, the vengeful Kittens returned to stomp Raleigh Enloe by a twenty-point margin. In the following struggles, Fayetteville and Durham each downed the home team. Victory-hungry, the young 'Cats squeezed by Goldsboro, 61-60, for their second seasonal win. The Kittens then dropped three consecutive games to Goldsboro, Jacksonville, and Raleigh Broughton in return engagements. Again defeating Raleigh Enloe, the Kittens launched a twenty-point victory over Fayetteville, bringing a close to the 1966 season.

Wrestlers Prepare For Future Matches

The New Hanover wrestling team, hampered by inexperience and the loss of wrestling coach Taylor Gilmour, managed to provide stiff competition in their closing contests. The squad began training under Jap Davis in early November to ready themselves for their first meet in December. Working with Stuart Smith, a Wilmington College wrestler, Coach Davis prepared the novice 'Cats to meet Kinston. Although only four Port City boys won their matches, the entire team benefited from the experience.

As the season progressed, the Wildcats worked to perfect their style and to learn new holds. The closing match against Jacksonville was a nip and tuck battle with the Cardinals finally winning by a pin and a decision. Undaunted by their season of losses, many of the NHHS wrestlers expressed hope for return bouts in the future.

Wildcat Nine Places Second In Southeastern

Co-captains Wayne Johnson and Dan Whisnant lead the 'Cats to the conference championship.

An enthusiastic team of Wildcats launched their season by defeating Fayetteville and Enloe by scores of 2 to 1 and 3 to 1, respectively. In a real cliff-hanger with Broughton of Raleigh, the 'Cats scored ten runs in the next two games while holding Goldsboro and Rocky Mount scoreless. Losing the next game to Durham, 5 to 4, the 'Cat Nine took three from Fayetteville, Goldsboro, and previously victorious Raleigh Broughton. Games with Goldsboro and Rocky Mount failed to go their way, but in the next game the Wilmington team fought to a 9 to 4 victory over a tough Durham squad. Adding two more victories to their list, New Hanover rolled over Wilson by 2 to 1 and over Raleigh Enloe by the top-heavy score of 10 to 4. Winning these two gave the Wildcats second place in the Eastern 4A Conference and a berth in the state championship playoffs.

In the 'Cats' first contest, they drew the champions of the Western 4A Conference, Garringer High School of Charlotte. In one of the toughest contests of the year, the Garringer hurlers came out victorious by a margin of only two runs. After defeating New Hanover, Garringer went on to win the State 4A Championship.

Led by Co-captains Dan Whisnant and Wayne Johnson, the 'Cats turned in a fine record for the '65 season. Batting averages for the Wildcats averaged up to a high .295, Senior Dan Whisnant leading the team with a tremendous average of .400. Seniors Sammy Long, Jimmy Burris, Sandy Dew, and Co-captain Wayne Johnson all sparked the team with batting averages of over .320.

Wildcat pitching proved good during the season with Junior Gene Russ winning three out of four and Senior Eddie Lewis taking four out of six to lead the Wildcats' victories. Juniors Doug Fox, Jimmy Johnson, and Don Harritan, along with Sophomore David Thomas, completed the lineup of Wildcat hurlers.

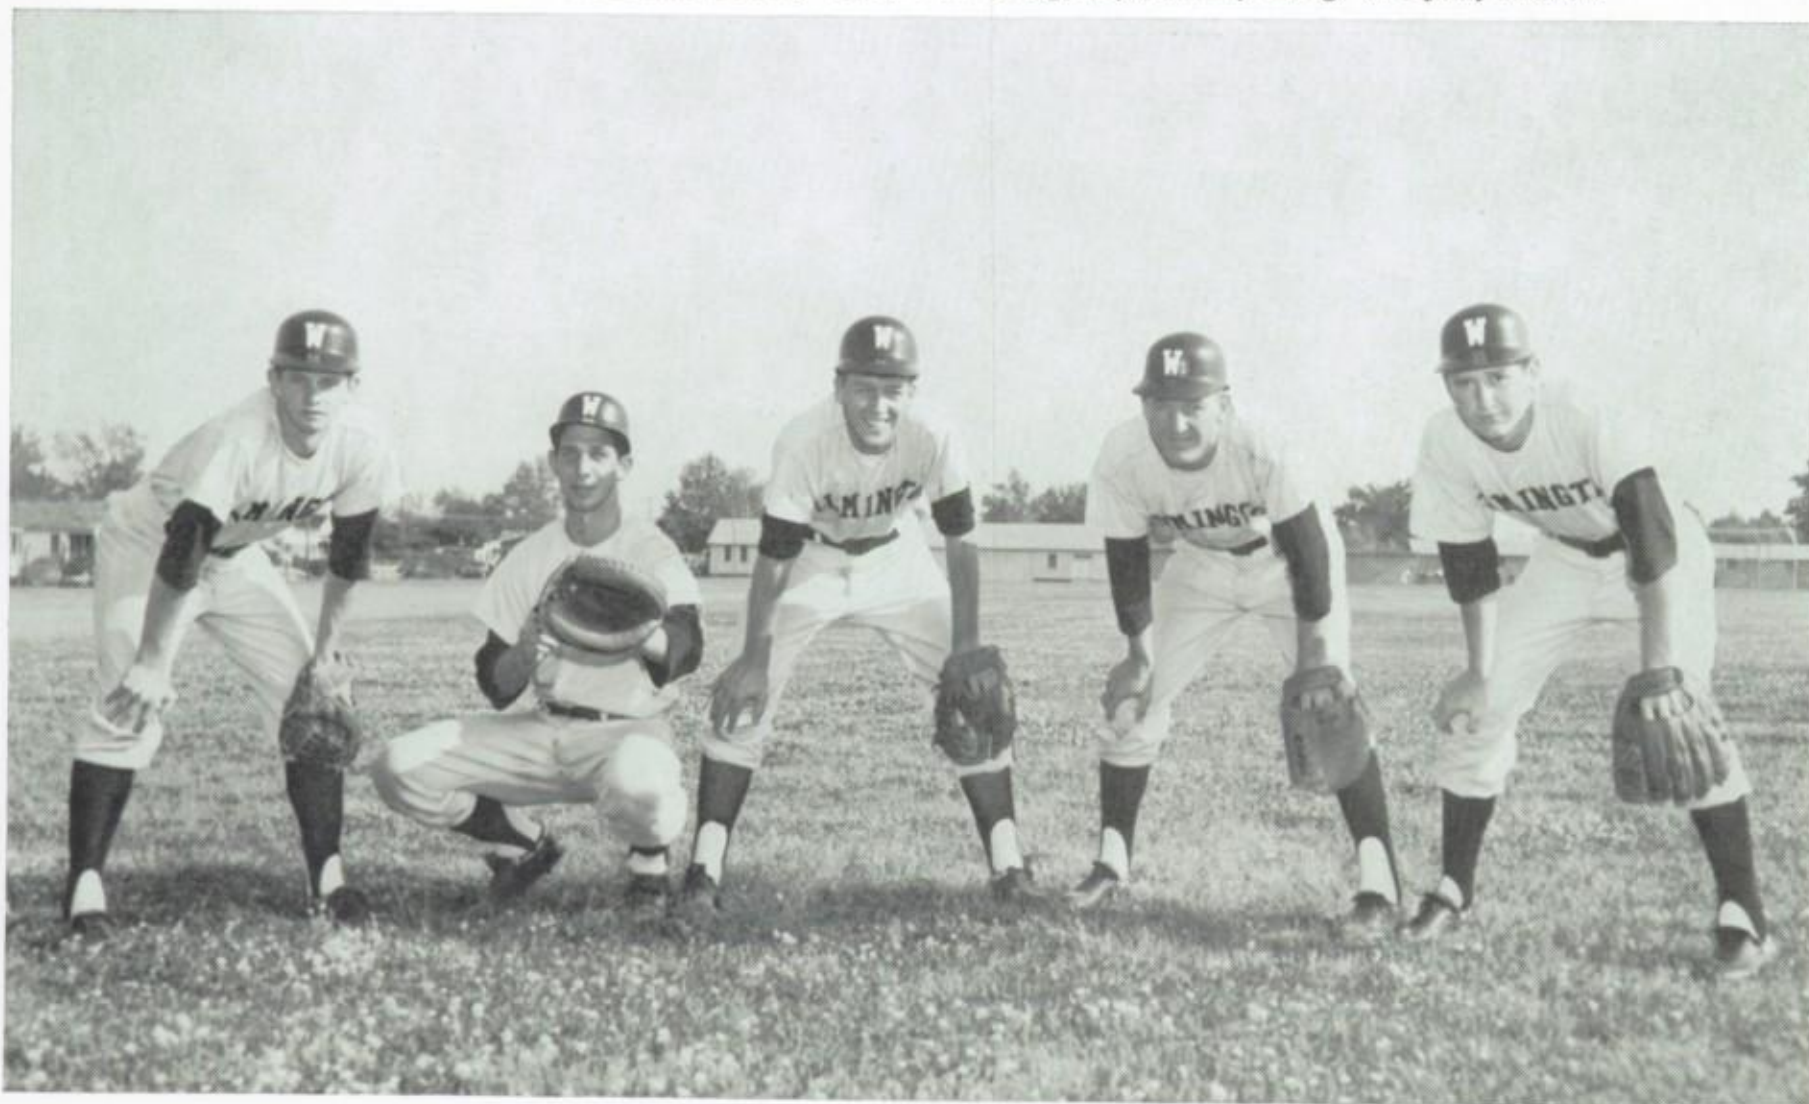

At the close of the season, the 'Cats met among themselves to choose the boy who had contributed most to the team. Because of his spirit and determination, Co-captain Dan Whisnant received the honor as Most Valuable Player for the 1965 season.

Sandy Dew, Jimmy Burris, and Wayne Johnson controlled the outfield for Wilmington.

JV CLUB PRODUCES OUTSTANDING RESULTS

The New Hanover High School Jayvee Baseball team opened their '65 season with a tremendous 16 to 2 victory over the Wallace-Rose Hill squad. In the following game the Kittens overpowered a tough Goldsboro team by a narrow one-point margin. The Port City hurlers again took the scoring honors in a clash with the Topsail nine. In their return engagement with Topsail, Wilmington succumbed in a 4 to 1 romp. The local nine then surged past Leland, 8 to 2, in the fifth tilt of the '65 season. Capturing their next win from Southport, the spirited Wilmington club went on to defeat Dixon High, 13 to 6. As the season progressed, the locals chalked up their seventh win by burying Atkinson, 22 to 4. Downed by Goldsboro in their next tilt, New Hanover next conquered a tough Bolivia team by only two runs. The New Hanover team again stopped Atkinson, 5 to 3, for their eighth win in ten games. In another win the New Hanover squad displayed their strength by overpowering Penderlea in a 15 to 0 outburst. Penderlea again succumbed to the locals in the return match at home. Next the Kittens downed Leland, 10 to 3, for their twelfth victory but dropped the following game to Dixon. Gaining another triumph over Southport, the hard-hitting Kittens advanced to their final game in which they romped over the Leland Club. The locals ended their '65 season with a superior 14-3 record.

The Student Union was the scene for the Football Finals Dance. Flanked by full-sized murals depicting the Wildcats' victories, Coach Jap Davis advanced to the microphone to present the 1965 Varsity Sweetheart. Applause filled the room when Miss Sara Fowler's name was announced as the team's choice. Coach Davis then presented Sara a bouquet of red roses.

Next the cheerleaders took over the spotlight by announcing the football player voted as the most liked by the cheerleaders. This honor, given to quarterback Jerry Martin, made him the Cheerleaders' Sweetheart.

The final award of the evening, presented by Coach Davis, went to the Most Valuable Player for the football season. Senior Danny Eason received this award for his outstanding defensive work in all of Wilmington's contests. As Jap Davis handed the award to Danny, the audience clapped their approval. This award concluded the formal activities of the dance, and the festive students proceeded to celebrate the close of the season.

Coach Jap Davis presents newly elected Varsity Sweetheart Sara Fowler with a bouquet of red roses.

Leading the fans are G. Bellamy, M. Benton, C. Wells, M. Lockfaw, S. Burns, J. Whedbee, M. Saffo, M. Grubbs, L. Bethea.

Cheerleaders Encourage Students' Loyalty

The official promoters of school spirit elected Linda Bethea their chief and Marian Saffo assistant. Bursting with school spirit, the girls lead the fans in vivacious yells throughout the football and basketball games. In addition to making money to attend out-of-town sports events, the girls sell orange and black BEAT ——— ribbons and shakers as well as chrysanthemums prior to the games. Another responsibility of Varsity Cheerleaders is the staging of pep rallies and bonfires. These events held before the games encourage the students to participate in yells and cheers. As the football season nears completion, the girls sponsor their annual Football Finals Dance, held in the Student Union.

Marion Saffo cheers enthusiastically as the Wildcats score.

Suzanne Burns and Maxine Benton voice their opinions for an NHHS victory.

Girls Engage In GAA Sponsored Activities

Sports coordinator Linda Eaten chats with Vice-President Donna Poole over the outcome of the softball game.

Composed of thirty sports-minded girls, who meet weekly on Wednesday afternoons, the Girls' Athletic Association offers hours of enjoyment and healthy exercise for those participating. Along with physical fitness, the association emphasizes sportsmanship. Members do not necessarily have to take physical education as a course to be a part of GAA. Directed by Mrs. Jean Tillitt, the association conducts the March of Dimes campaign, which is a primary annual activity of the group.

Girls in GAA learn the fundamentals of numerous competitive sports, supervised by Mrs. Tillitt in all their activities. At the first of the year, the girls are tested according to a state physical fitness test.

Led by Peggy Thompson, president of GAA, the girls continue their activities throughout the school year. During the fall months the members form teams, composed of nine girls each, to compete in volleyball and badminton tournaments. The teams battle one another to determine the championship team. As winter sets in, the girls compete in such indoor sports as table tennis, basketball, tumbling, and bowling. Tennis and softball become the main centers of interest in the spring, when good weather arrives.

GAA groups meet not only during school hours but also during weekends, holidays, and parties planned by their social chairman.

President Peggy Thompson and Treasurer Betty Parker fight for possession of the ball.

Secretary Rhonda Roberts returns the shuttlecock as Social Chairman Patty Simmons looks on during an afternoon badminton game.

Golfers Vision Success On Variety Of Courses

With the coming of spring, the New Hanover Golf team began training for a vigorous schedule of meets. Working under coach Jap Davis, the boys practiced at the golf courses around Wilmington. The clubs that the Wildcats met included the schools of Wilson, Fayetteville, Rocky Mount, Jacksonville, Durham, and Goldsboro along with Raleigh Enloe and Raleigh Broughton. During the spring weekends, five boys from each of these schools met at a different town to compete on the home team's own course. In this way, each match brought all nine competing clubs together and gave the teams a variety of courses to play.

Intramural Activities Increasingly Popular

Organized in 1964, the intramural sports program is growing rapidly as more people learn of the varied activities offered. Mr. Hal Stout, boys' director, and Mrs. Jean Tillitt, girls' director, plan and supervise the program, trying to encourage the participation of students who normally would not be active in the school's athletic program.

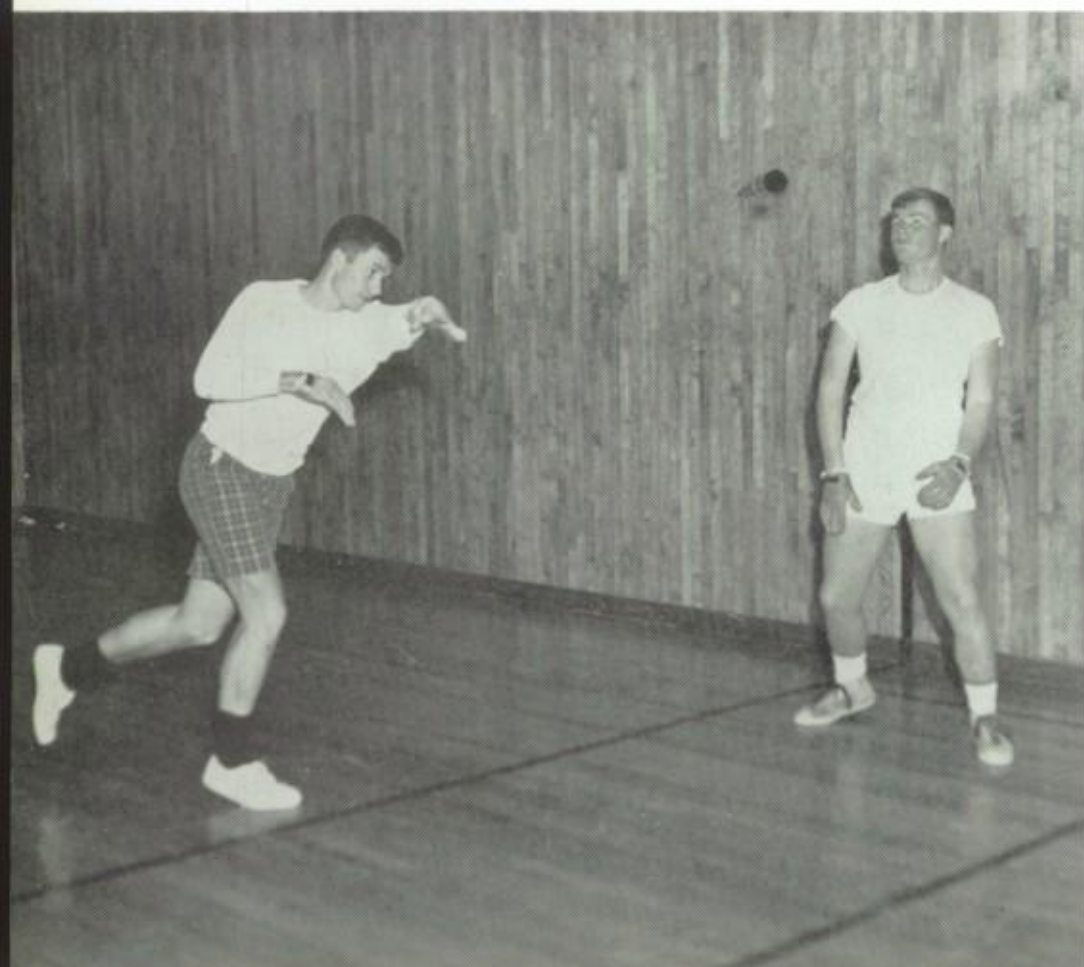

Among the various sports available to boys are soccer (an English style of football) and volleyball in the fall, with basketball, handball, shuffleboard, and ping-pong during the colder months. Matches in tennis and golf and games between softball teams are the scheduled sports in the spring. Basketball seems to be the sport generating the most interest as teams battle it out for the championship in two leagues with a playoff between the victor in each group for the school championship. Due to the recent organization of intramural activities, championships were not held in each individual sport.

The girls' intramural sports feature four main activities for afterschool participation: volleyball, basketball, badminton, and ping-pong. Of these volleyball and basketball are the two more enthusiastically received with girls forming teams and competing among themselves for first place.

Competition is also keen as girls battle against each other in singles and doubles table tennis matches. Badminton, played in the Girls' Gym, rounds out the intramural program.

Mrs. Jean Tillitt and Mr. Hal Stout direct the intramural activities.

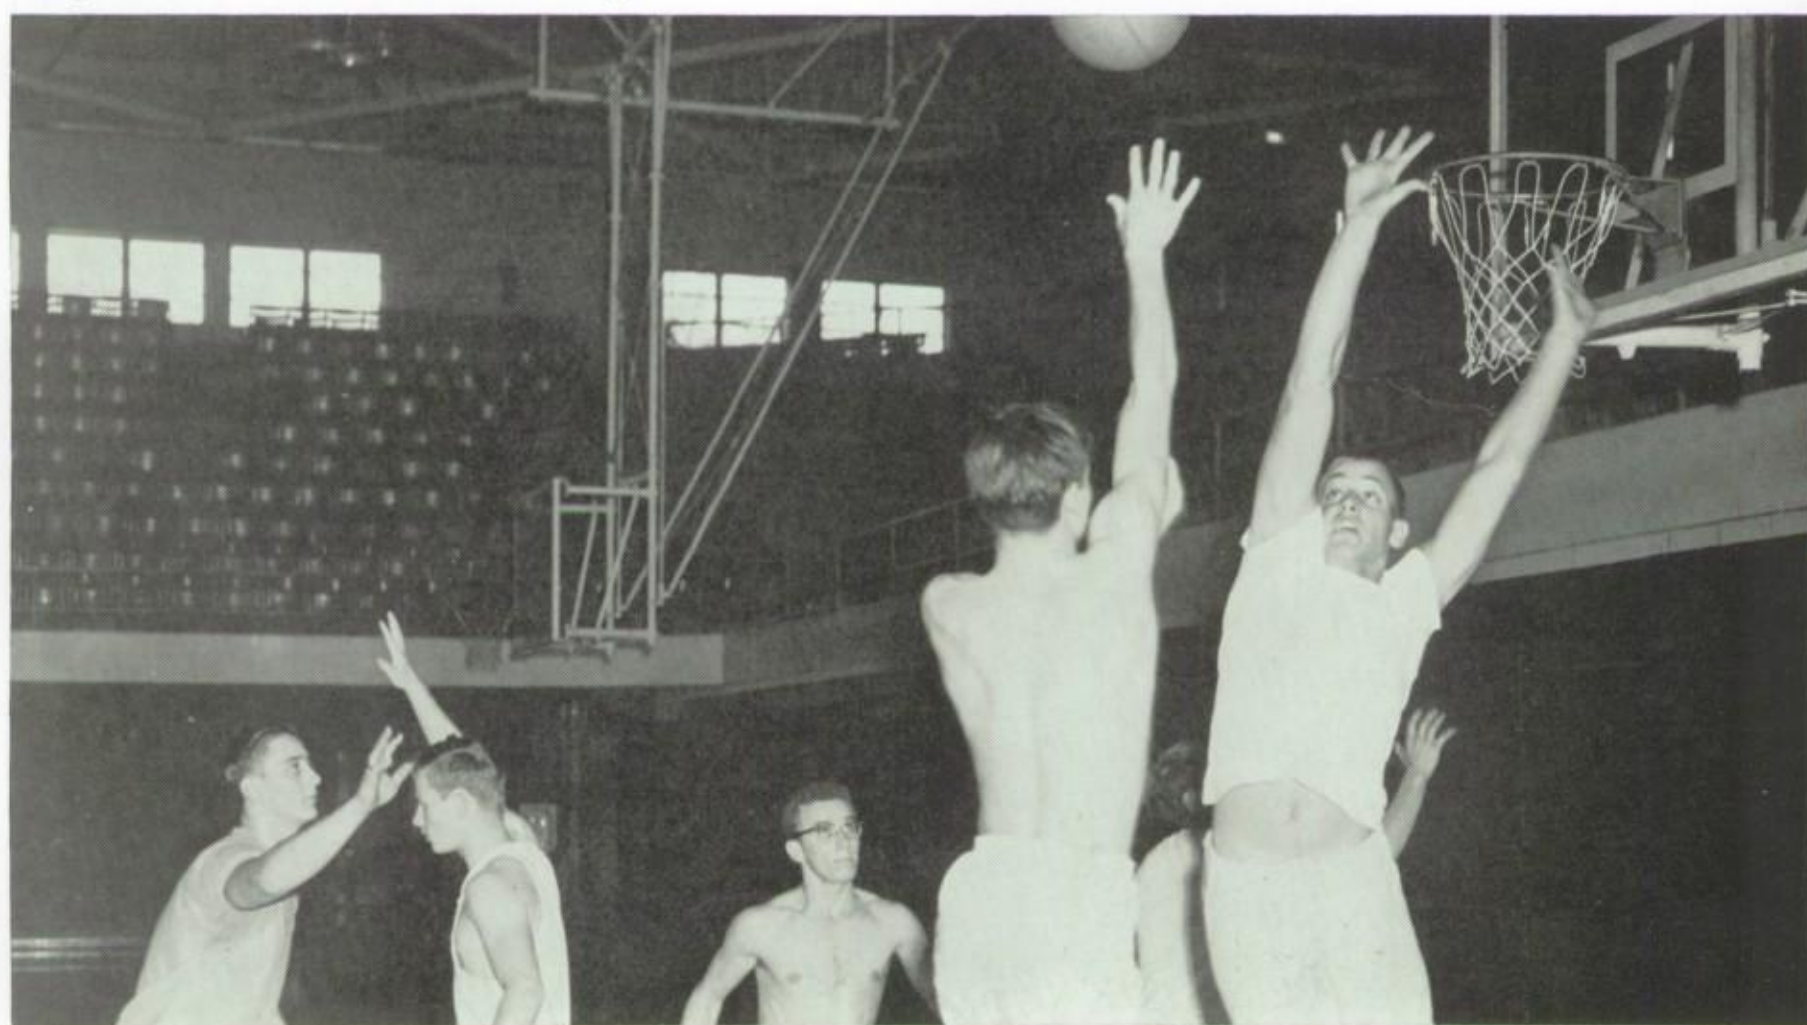

Gene Russ and Jerry Simmons compete in a fast-moving game of handball.

Sandra Uber and Rhonda Roberts vie for honors in an intramural table tennis match.

Coaching Staff Works To Promote Sportsmanship

New Hanover boasts a variety of sports: football, basketball, baseball, track, tennis, wrestling, and golf. Also featured are Junior Varsity sports in football, basketball, and baseball.

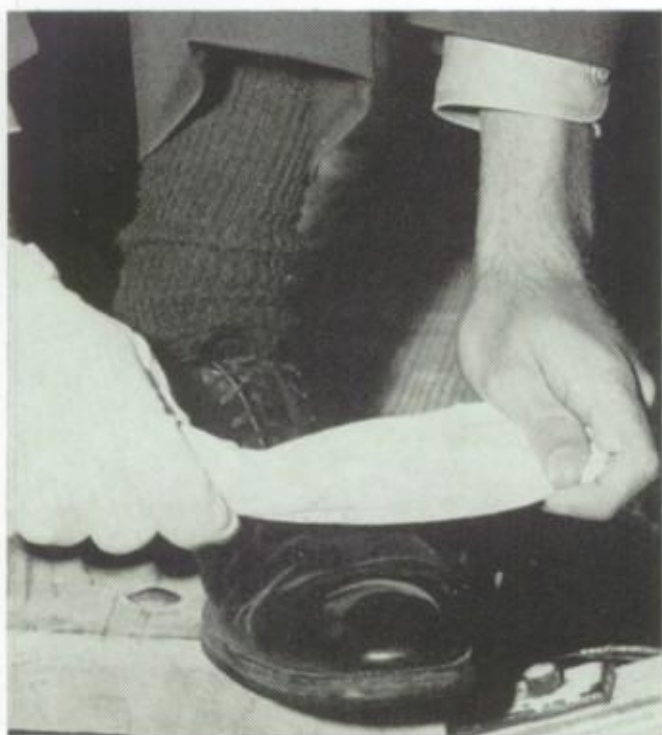

To turn out winning teams in these fields takes hard work, patience, and practice, not only by the players but also by the men guiding them, the coaches. Jap Davis can vouch for the work involved in producing a good football team as can Bill and Buck Hardee, his assistants. Leon Brogden, athletic director and head basketball coach, and Toddy Fennell, assistant basketball coach, also realize that winning teams are a product of extensive practice and training. Baseball, coached by Buck Hardee and Bill Hardee, is another sport in which practice and hard work are as necessary for success as in the development of the track team and the tennis club, under Frank Farrow and Richard Henderson, respectively. Golf and wrestling, coached by Jap Davis, takes skill and endurance, while the Junior Varsity sports of football, basketball, and baseball, the coaching fields of Paul Maulsby, Hal Stout, and Toddy Fennell require extra practice and a large fund of patience by both athletes and directors.

Coaches Hal Stout and Paul Maulsby instruct J. V. football and basketball teams while Coach Frank Farrow trains the track team.

Coaches Buck Hardee, Toddy Fennell, Leon Brogden, Jap Davis, and Bill Hardee direct New Hanover's three major sports—football, baseball, and basketball.

Instructors

Returning this year are two of last year's instructors in addition to the PMS and MT-III instructor, Captain D. C. Green. After joining the instructor group last year, SFC Fred J. Hall, with many years of active service, teaches MT-II cadets about marksmanship, map reading, and leadership traits. Sp5 Leon E. Walker, who previously graduated from NHHS, handles grades, records, and other phases of bookkeeping for the ROTC unit. This year joining the staff in ROTC administration is S/Sgt. James Duffey, who has just returned from fighting in Viet Nam. He entered the instructor group during the school year, replacing the retiring S/Sgt. John W. Craft. S/Sgt. Duffey's duties will be to teach the MT-I cadets about the functions of the M-1 rifle and carbine, and about military courtesies, customs, and rules of conduct.

Brigade Headquarters

Each Monday and Friday, weather permitting, the ROTC boys assembly at the ROTC Building for formation. Clothed in smart, well-pressed uniforms and shiny black shoes, each cadet receives his rifle and answers the roll call. Then everyone takes his position in company formation as the group prepares to leave for the parade grounds.

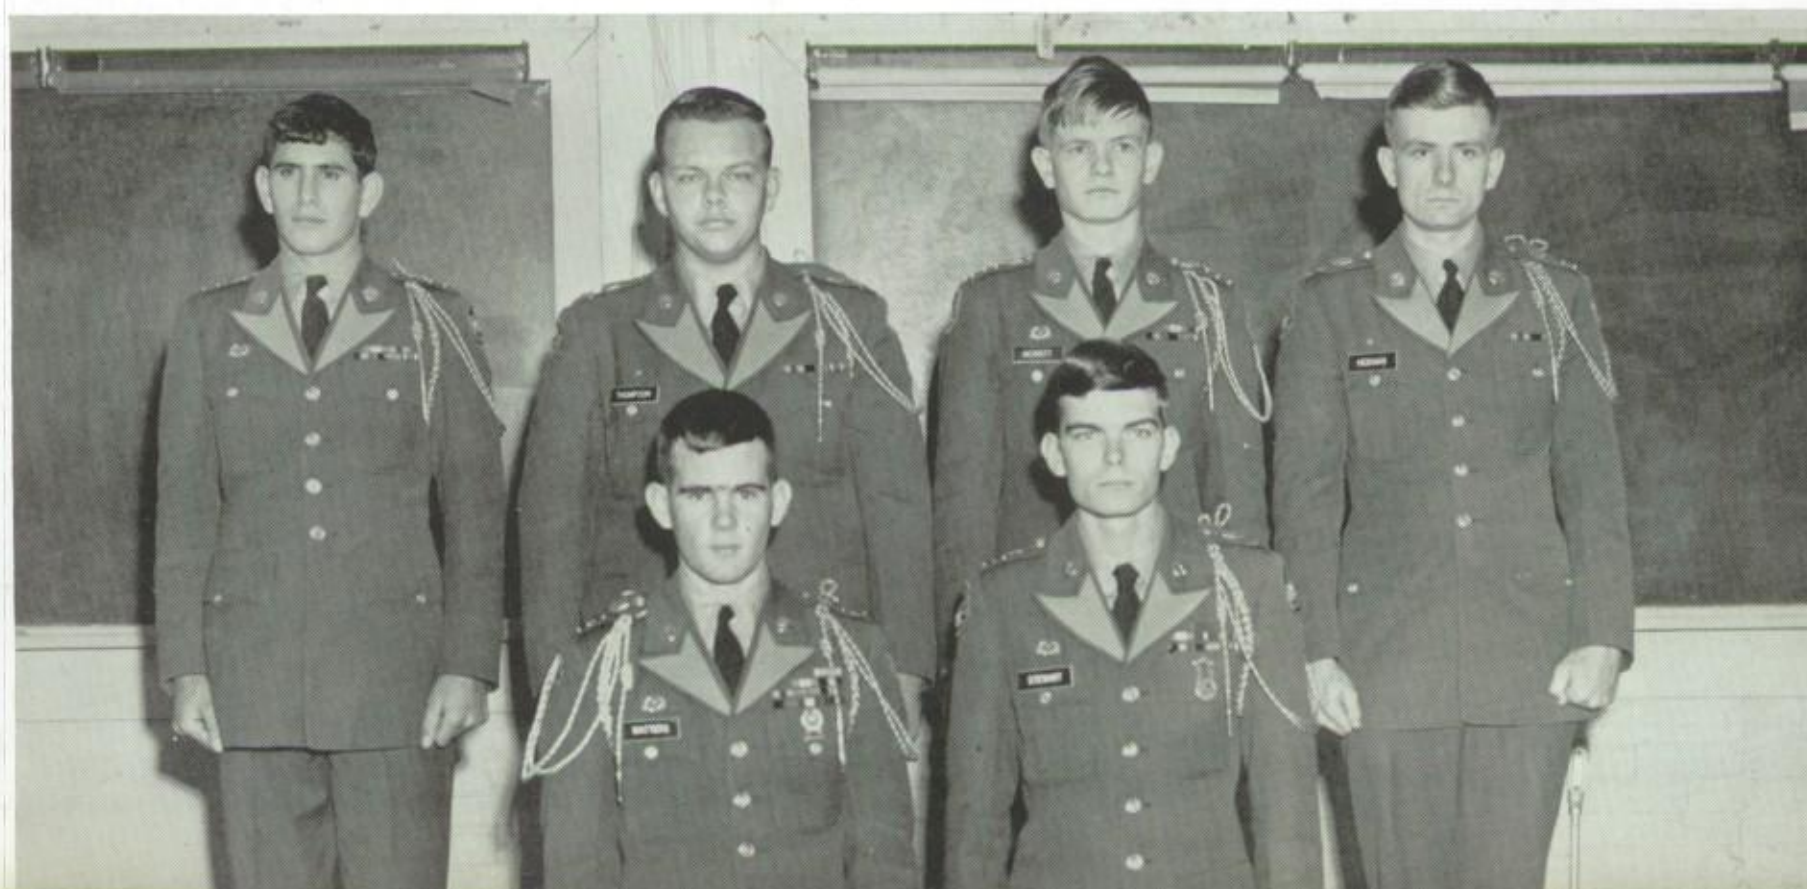

After falling in ranks, the cadets march in formation to the field at Thirteenth and Ann Streets, each one proud of his individual but important part in the smart-looking Brigade. Cadets carefully and precisely carry out every command issued them with the skill of an expertly trained unit.

Each cadet performs his duties and works hard to win a high rating for his company. Long hours are spent in practicing precision drill, for the drills prepare him for duty in the Armed Forces. The quality of this drilling is clearly evident when one sees the cadets perform. The leadership traits, pride in appearance, and strict self-discipline that the cadet develops carry over for use in civilian life.

Each Monday the Honor Company for the week is announced by the instructors. Throughout the week, all the cadets compete for top honors for their company.

The cadets prove even more alert on Friday, for this is the last day that their company can gain points. MT-I's and MT-II's compete for Honor Cadet and Distinguished Cadet among their respective classes each Friday.

This strict drill in the field, however, does not make up all of ROTC. Cadets have classroom periods twice each week where they receive lectures on various military subjects. Here again the cadets compete for a high standing in the class. The Academic Achievement Wreath is awarded to boys who represent the top ten percent of their ROTC class at the end of the school year.

The rifle marksmanship team consists of fifteen MT-I and MT-II cadets who have mastered the techniques of accurate firing. Try-outs are held each fall and only the cadets who fire consistently high scores stand a chance. As a varsity sport, the rifle team has raised the NHHS Victory Flag on many occasions. Co-captains of the group are Mike Watters and Edward Boone, with Miss Holly Blakeman as the sponsor. In the many matches the team has fired in, it has always placed highly.

Cadet Officers

Experienced leadership for the Cadet Brigade is provided by the members of the ROTC Officers' Club. The membership of this club consists of all third year cadet officers. These cadets serve as an aid to the instructors in directing the Brigade. The function of this club is to plan certain social activities, to foster better relations between cadet officers, and to promote fellowship, school spirit, and patriotism.

This year's officers are Johnny Watkins, president; Norman Akel, vice-president; Wally West, recorder; and John Robinson, treasurer.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

September—long evenings with sultry heat of late summer, returning vacationers, new fall clothes, golden leisure hours slipping away on swift feet, beach cottages deserted for the winter, harsh buzzing of the first school bell—the sophomore begins his senior high school career. First feelings of timidity and uncertainty are soon crowded out as club meetings, new friends, and study fill the days. A wider selection of subjects and activities help him find new interests. As one of the sophomore's first duties he elects class officers and senators to represent him in student government. He shows his school spirit in his enthusiastic support of the varsity teams and in his eager participation in JV sports. Through his tireless efforts in presenting the Twirp (The Woman Is Requested to Pay) Dance he shows his ability and initiative. Although he dreads exams, experience teaches him that they are not so difficult. The way to his classes, which was once so confusing, is routine now. As the year draws to an end, the near junior looks back with pride and forward with confidence.

JUNIOR CLASS

With confidence gained from a year of experience, the junior class participates in the many activities offered them. Numerous clubs encourage juniors to develop special interests; pep rallies, football games, and dances give them a chance to express school spirit.

Through elected representatives, the class takes part in student government. After Christmas vacation and the arrival of the New Year, NHHS students begin to prepare for examinations. Mid-term exams test the junior's knowledge to date, of American literature, advanced biology, and United States history with special emphasis on courses prerequisite to graduation. With exam results, many juniors begin to make definite plans; college, job opportunities, and even homemaking no longer seem so far in the future. Special programs such as, College Night and sessions with their guidance counselor, aid juniors in their choices for careers. Before the school year ends come the selection of class rings and the junior-senior-highlights for all members of the junior class. May brings final exams and junior inductions into the National Honor Society. Although regretting that their eventful year now draws to a close, the rising class of '67 eagerly awaits the challenges of the year ahead.

Vice-President Bob Andrews, President Dick Slack, and Secretary Georgia Macris represent the Class of 1966 in Student Government.

SENIOR CLASS

Aspiration is the keynote of the senior year in high school. Each senior seeks hopefully to plan a meaningful life. The approach of graduation and the prospect of a job or further education is heralded by many things: daily bulletin announcements about colleges, trade schools, clerical courses, and sometimes job opportunities; seniors' reading of college bulletins and vocational guidance material; receipt of College Board test scores; and the flurry of mid-year schedule changes to meet graduation requirements. The senior year is the first of many memorable years of learning, planning, and growing in self-reliance.

The process of education is not just a matter of books, papers, and pencils. Active participation in clubs and other extracurricular activities provides for seniors many lessons in human relations.

The senior year in high school is not only a year to look ahead but also it is a year to reminisce. The timidity of the first days as a sophomore, the more confident days as a junior, and the thoughtful planning of the senior year—these memories are part of the nostalgia that often occupies the mind of a high school senior.

Provocative class discussions interrupted by the roar of a Honda speeding down Market Street, students' solemn reverence at flag ceremonies, English research papers, English 4 students chanting Chaucer's "When that Aprille . . ."—these are things apart from everyday life: these are future memories of the searching, probing last days of youth.

Big "P"

Well sug, the time of year has come again and another year, has passed. I feel sure that your "goal" was reached this year. Your personality is that of a great leader, and I wish the best to you in the future. Good Luck to a wonderful person.

Love always

Phyllis,

I've enjoyed ~~the~~ being in study hall with you this semester. I think we spent more days at the Wildcat than in class. Best of luck to a real great girl and I hope you get everything you want. Take it easy this summer and don't get hitched to Ralph yet!

See you this summer,

Len Clark

Phyllis,

What a nice surprise what your friends have said to me. I had many good times with you. I really enjoyed being with you. I hope you have a great summer. Can't you go for one this summer?
I'd love to see you. I hope you have a nice summer.

A friend of mine said you

The year turns its profile;
Shadows, bars, and dots of light
Trace the pattern of its face—
Fine etchings of events,
Fuzzy shadows—edge of mood,
The dapple and splash of small ecstasies,
The thicker mist of small tragedies,
Another face is turning toward the light,
That of approaching years—
A face of fewer shadows,
Shorter darkness, the end of night.

Phyllis,
I have really enjoyed being in your study hall
the first of the year—
when we were there.
Be good and cool
this summer and if you can't, name it after me. Best of luck to a really sweet girl.
Love ya,
Alex M.

To Phil
Really appreciate those damn filthy jokes. I only hope that Ralph Suggs boy breaks up with you
so we can date. (again?)

Jessie Lynch

Best of luck to sweet, attractive girl

Phyllis,
where in the world would I have ever heard any dirty jokes if it weren't for you! Every really good is yet to come - The houseparty.
Maybe we'll get to be lucky fellows' good sweetie - Judy Weaver

Phyllis,
Well, another year has passed, we had a ball at lunch. We raised so much. HA HA.
Don't raise to much hell at the houseparty.
See you this summer!
Margaret
Alfred

Phil,
I couldn't begin to write any of what I'd like to say in such a short space.
You're a great girl and if you ever change I'll personally kick your butt - Love always,
Hall

Phyl,
I can't spell your whole name. I'm sure has been fun knowing you this year and I hope it will be this way for many more years. I still wished you'd had gotten that bathing suit.
Just think how much fun you could have had in it on the houseparty.
Oh, well with or without it we will all have a blast.
Good luck to you
+ Ralph always.

Love Pa

Ann
Weaver

To my old "sweetie pie,"
Take care of Ralph and yourself.
Been great shooting the shit with you this year. Love always.

~~Kevin~~

To a great girl,
I have enjoyed knowing
you for the past year.
English is great!
Best of luck in everything.
Larry Candy

Phyllis,

It has been great knowing you for this past year. We have had some ~~real go~~ ^{great} times and I hope you have as much fun
next year as I have had.

Good luck and best wishes for the future.

As Jay said, "Watch out for those pictures of the beds" and don't be making any ~~sex-~~
relations at "Relax's".

Good luck always.

Martha McBurnie

YOU'RE A NUMBER ONE GIRL WITH GREAT LOOKS.
TAKE CARE OF OLE
RALPH NOW AND STAY
REAL SWEET.

Jay Loney

P.S. WATCH OUT FOR

THOSE PICTURES OF THE

BEDS.

To one of the sweetest girls I've ever known. You are really a great girl and I have enjoyed talking to you this year. Stay as sweet as you are now, forever, and may good fortune be yours forever.

John Kuhlken

From the bottom of my heart, you just don't know, how much I.....

Ammmy

To a great girl. It's been fun knowing you and going to school with you too. It's been great and I hope to go to school
a lot with you next year. Good Day!!
Let Aunt

It's been fun eating lunch with you this year. With your looks and personality you'll go far - which way you'll go is up to you. Lot's of luck
Frances

To a real cute and sweet girl who I have enjoyed knowing over the years, a real crazy horse, Best of Luck and what wishes
in the next years,
David Kelly

To a wonderful girl with looks, plus making all. I have been enjoyed getting to know you this year. I hope to see you at all of the summer house party. Next year
we'll sit some together.
Much love,
Janet

You Really To one of the GREAT girl.
GREAT at the undoubted Holy hell. knowing N.H.S. It care of with you been and..... you! Take Ralphie! beautiful self
Lloyd Brueshaw

Well it has been great morning
you don't you think this year the me can get out together.
Well I'll see you next year you skimming water. Well keep growing in the right place.
JH

Phyllis,
Well another year has passed and its been great knowing you and talking in some room. I wish you the best of luck in the future and may God bless you always.
Behave and Be Good.
Love Joan Robinson (Come down & go sailing)

Phyllis,
Have enjoyed
having you in homeroom. Your sketches are quite good & will always be a reminder of you.
Good luck in the future.
Dany Cochane

To a great girl with looks to great & personality to great make you all the world
success in all the world luck to you!
Claire
Duski

Looking for things to a girl who is going to be and into a world of things
and into a world of things to see more often. Good luck always!
Dany

Phyllis,
It's been great
knowing you & fighting Fear together. You're great Kidato. You're that way. I wish you stay the best life has to offer.
Always,
Mike McGee
To a great shape the summer girl. See you in the summer but please don't take your dear father to the beach with you.
Mike
